County, State To Investigate Vote Machines

By PAUL LEVY
(Mercury Staff Writer)

The State Justice department and the county election board will conduct a joint investigation into reports that voting machines throughout the Third Legislative district failed to register votes for defeated Democratic candidate Charles A. Dasch.

Judge Robert W. Honeyman approved the investigation Wednesday morning and ordered all voting machines in the district impounded. The investigation will be conducted next Wednesday or Thursday after the voting machines are returned to the county warehouse.

While there is no doubt that some machines were malfunctioning, officials disagreed sharply on just how many failed to register Democratic votes in the State Assembly special election. J. Phil Doud, chairman of the Montgomery county Democratic party, called 75 to 100 voting machines "a conservative estimate." Fred W. Fairlie, chief clerk of the election board, said there were no more than 35 or 40 machines that failed to work properly.

"Those that didn't work were put back in order as soon as the election officials understood how to correct the situation," Fairlie continued. "There was nothing mechanically wrong, and the investigation certainly isn't going to turn up anything."

HE SAID that most of the machines were back in order within two hours after the first complaints were received. Doud charged, however, that many were still malfunctioning as late at 1:30 p. m. and in at least one election district the three voting machines were out of order at 7 o'clock election night.

The faulty machines also brought forth charges and counter-charges by Doud and County Commissioner Elkins Wetherill, who also heads the election board.

Doud told The Mercury

Council May Act To Ease Borough Transit Crisis

A special borough council committee to study the transportation crisis brought on here by the Pottstown Rapid Transit company decision to end service, probably will be formed in the near future.

Council President J. Wayne Knause, who will make the final decision as to whether the committee will be vital in solving the transit situation, Wednesday called for a "Community Committee" in addition.

He proposed the panel consist of government, commercial, industrial, school and ministerial representatives. Leaders in these areas have voiced a willingness to take part.

Knause believes the borough government "probably will carry the ball and get it started," but added that he didn't think the effort should be rushed into.

As the impact of the PRT announcement deepened into serious concern—spoken by the man on the street as well as the government official—Knause's evaluation that a solution should be sought carefully was seconded in most quarters.

All facets of community life already have taken the stand that the job facing Pottstown is to continue bus transportation.

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors, meeting Wednesday, also took this official stand. The Chamber is willing to cooperate in any community wide venture to keep the buses running, and will make proposals after future study.

Knause said he is deliberating the special council committee idea because "no standing committee is suited to do the research and make the decisions that will be required."

HE ADDED that he does not anticipate any council action until the June session, at the earliest. "This shouldn't be hurried. They (PRT) indicated they'd probably not be released from their franchise by the Public Utilities commission before Sept. 1."

Knause's statement reflected one fragment of hope among citizens here that PRT may be restrained from quitting by the PUC.

Rapid Transit has taken the first steps toward the relinquishment of its franchise. Faced with continuing economic reversals, it does not intend to change this course.

CYCLE, CAR CRASH; MAN BADLY HURT

Couple, Niece Treated for Shock

A 23 year old Chester county man was seriously injured and a Pottstown couple and their 4 year old niece badly shaken up Wednesday night in a collision between a car and a motorcycle.

Admitted to Pottstown hospital with a deep gash across the abdomen and internal injuries was Herbest Bostic, of Kennett Square. He was the driver of the motorcycle.

Also admitted to the hospital was 4 year old Annette Yoder, of Elverson RD 1. She was a passenger in the car driven by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Barry Haring, of 216 North Charlotte street. They were treated for shock and released.

The accident occurred shortly after 10 p. m. at the top of a hill and sharp curve 200 feet north of Route 23 on Route 100.

BELL COMPANY RATE CHANGE GETS APPROVAL

New Free Dialing Areas Scheduled for Aug. 15

Bell Telephone changes in the Limerick township area which will give 22,500 'phone customers — including Pottstonians — wider free dialing privileges, will go into effect August 15, Bell announced Wednesday.

The confirmation of a setup first explained last December in The Mercury reflected the approval of the Public Utilities Commission, which was examining the Bell proposal.

The official announcement marked the success of Mercury-aided Limerick campaign protesting toll charges between the five exchanges which cover the township.

In addition to existing free-dialing areas, the following will be added under the new setup.

Pottstown will be able to call Atlas (Schwenksville) and Huxley (Collegeville) free.

Atlas customers will be able to call Pottstown, Royersford (Williams exchange) and Lin-

BOROUGH JAIL RENOVATIONS ARE APPROVED

Police Will Get Interrogation Room

The park and property committee approved plans for the modernization of the borough hall jail and the renovation of a stock room into a police interrogation room at a short meeting Wednesday night.

Both projects are included in the 1961 budget. The jail modernization—ordered by the State Justice department several years ago—is expected to cost $6000.

The renovation of a utility stock room into an interrogation room is expected to cost $500. The renovation will include the installation of a false ceiling to cover the network of pipes and painting of the room.

The modernization of the jail includes the construction of six new cells. The jail, in the basement of borough hall, now has three cells, each with two bunks. The six new cells will each hold a single occupant.

The walls of the cell will be of steel reinforced concrete block, the ceiling of glass brick to allow lighting of the cells. Three of the cells will be six feet wide, the others from 6½ feet to 8½ feet wide. The bunks, of metal, will be two foot wide and 6-foot 3-inches long.

The plans will now be submitted to the State Justice department for approval. No starting date was set for the project.

Modern Pioneer Beset by Hardships Of Heavy Traffic, Restless Pet

By WILLARD RANDALL
(Mercury Staff Writer)

"I felt like a Western style Rip Van Winkle who fell asleep at the reins 100 years ago and woke up in my covered wagon on a busy superhighway".

This was 58 year old Warren C. Holden's description of how he felt the first three days of traveling by horse drawn covered wagon over 50 miles of Pennsylvania and Delaware highways.

Resting Wednesday in the Delaware hamlet of Sticklerville, four miles north of Newark, the Pughtown road, Pottstown RD 1 man told of his experiences since he headed his wagon south from the area early Monday morning.

"I've gotten a bigger kick out of this than anything I ever did in my life", he said.

HOLDEN, VICTIM of a near fatal stroke three years ago, went on to recount the difficulties he encountered on the first leg of his journey Monday.

Morning Chill Is Chased by Sunny Skies

Shivering a little on their way to work, Pottstown residents could only nod to each other and agree:

It was a mighty cool morning for this time of year.

Wednesday morning was cool for this time of year, but in Springtime 1961, this was not unusual.

The weatherman gave added reassurances that no records were set for the day. The coolest May 17 on record was in 1956, with a low of 37. The low for Wednesday was 52. The high was 72.

THIS DROP in temperature from the warm previous days was caused by a cold front which moved down from Michigan on Tuesday.

Its effects, however, were not felt until Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

The prediction for today is mostly sunny weather for the morning. But the temperature will drop a little in the afternoon under cloudy skies. The expected high is 70; the expected low 45. There is a chance of rain in the late afternoon or evening.

Airship Pays Rare Visit to Pottstown Area

When residents of the Pottstown area see a . . . dirigible? zeppelin? airship? . . . overhead, the unusual sight usually causes some consternation.

Just as it did Wednesday when a lighter-than-air craft passed over the Coventryville-Knauertown area enroute to Akron, O., from the Lakehurst Naval Air station, N.J.

A Navy spokesman reported the trip is seldom made, accounting for the fact that such craft are rarely seen here.

He added that it was an "airship." Dirigibles are bigger. Zeppelins are German airships.

It was never in distress. They always fly at low altitudes, and move very slowly.

It is highly unlikely that another airship will visit these environs for some time.

THE WEATHER

Sunny this morning. Becoming cloudy in the afternoon with rain in late afternoon or evening. High near 70. Low 45 to 50.

FIVE DAY FORECAST: Temperatures to average near normal. Little change to Saturday, then a warming trend. Rain tonight or tomorrow. Showers about Monday. Temperatures will average between 54 and 74 degrees.

Fair Minded Stork Plays No Favorites

One was a 6-pound, 15-ounce girl.

The other was a 6-pound, 15-ounce boy.

Both arrived at 9:47 p. m.

Cranky Clock May Be Shown How to Tick

Respect for the aged—and that includes cranky old clocks—may pay off today by getting the town tick-tock atop Transfiguration Lutheran church back on the beam.

"Old Faithless," having another tantrum, is about four minutes slow, and Borough Electrician Charles Snyder hoped that by letting the old gent alone a day or two, things might work themselves out.

"No more tinkering," said Snyder, who is learning the innards of the 48 year old relic from his assistant, William Hurley, the regular clock-fixer.

"We're afraid if we keep setting it, it'll do more harm than good. So we're hoping that it may straighten itself out," said Snyder.

The weary old timepiece has perked up before as if it had a mind of its own. Snyder will try to reset it early today . . . to see if his "hands off" theory gets the hands back on—time, that is.

3-Way Struggle Will Spark Union Balloting

Incumbent Frank Pachik, president of the Doehler Jarvis union United Auto Workers local 1056, will oppose Leonard Keffer and Jeff Hartenstine, both former presidents, in a bid for re-election to the two year post May 31.

Pachik announced Wednesday that elections for ten offices of the union will be conducted from 6 a. m. to midnight in the cafeterias of both plants. Eleven hundred union members of local 1056 will be eligible to cast ballots.

Also seeking re-election will be Stanley "Dutch" Miller, Chief Steward of the union. Miller and Pachik were elected to their present posts in June, 1959. Opposing Miller will be Harold Bealer, former chief steward and Jack Emery.

Pachik's bid for re-election sets the stage for a rematch of the closely contested race that he and Keffer ran two years ago. At that time Pachik and Keffer were forced into a "runoff" when neither candidate secured the necessary simple majority in the main election. Keffer, who was the incumbent, gained more votes in the first election, but lost to Pachik in the runoff, 409 votes to 382.

IN OFFICES where there are three or more candidates, an individual must receive at least one vote more than half the total ballots cast to win the election. Thus, if 1100 ballots are cast, a winning candidate must receive 551 votes.

If a candidate does not receive the required number of votes, a runoff between the two candidates receiving the highest number of votes is staged. This year, June 7 is the date set for a runoff, if one is necessary. The voting will be during the same hours and at the same places.

Pachik said all offices will be for two year terms. Ballots will be counted June 1.

In another contest, Charles Hartenstine, incumbent Union guide, will oppose

French Model Reluctantly Leaves For Paris, But She Has Companion

Jacqueline Mouyal, the pert and perky 24 year old French model who has been visiting her aunt and uncle in Elverson RD 1, returns to Paris today.

And though she came alone, she'll return with company—her 13 year old cousin, Patricia Ann Deering. Patricia, an Eighth grade pupil at Owen J. Roberts Junior High school, is the daughter of Jacqueline's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Deering.

For Patricia it will be the second visit to France. Five years ago she went to Paris to visit the Mouyals. "I visited all the sights that time, but I'm going to visit them all again," she said happily Wednesday.

HER FAVORITE sights are the many museums in Paris and her "special favorite is the Loucre," which houses the largest collection of paintings in the world, as well as hundreds of sculptures, vases, tapestries and engravings.

And though she no longer considers herself a tourist, Patricia still favors the Mona Lisa and the two huge statues, Winged Victory of Samothrace and Venus di Milo.

She was given special per-

TODAY'S TEENAGER

John D. Karpinski, 18, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Karpinski, 370 Cherry street, and a junior at Pottstown High school. He is in the general course.

A member of the football team in his freshman and sophomore years, he was unable to make the team this year because of injuries of an automobile accident. He plans to try out for the team next year, however. John also holds a part time job after school at the Maria Assunta lodge, and engages in sports outside of school. He is a member of the Whiz Kids baseball team, and attends Holy Trinity Catholic church.

He intends to enter an industrial school in Philadelphia after graduation, and follow a course in plumbing. He now is an apprentice plumber. His favorite hobbies are both salt and fresh water fishing, bowling, golf, and baseball.

CANDIDATE'S FATHER DIES IN HOSPITAL

Charles A. Kulp Was Retired Farmer

The 81 year old father of South Coventry township tax collector Charles A. Kulp, nominated for a second term in the Democratic primary election Tuesday night, died Wednesday at 3:30 a. m. in Pottstown hospital.

Joseph W. Kulp, husband of Clara May (Kutz) Kulp, Bucktown, died less than six hours after his son, of Pughtown road, Pottstown RD 1, was chosen candidate in the election.

Mr. Kulp was hospitalized the past two days, and was in failing health five years.

A lifelong area resident, he was born in Niantic, the son of the late Christian and Cassiah (Bowman) Kulp.

He was a farmer in Northern Chester county more than 50 years before his retirement nine years ago.

SURVIVING WITH his wife and son Charles are three other sons, Frank, Pottstown RD 2; Luther C., Pottstown RD 1; and Horace, Gilbertsville RD 1; three sisters, Ethel, wife of Roy Wunderlich, Pottstown RD 1; Alice, wife of Arthur Yelk, Elverson RD 1; and Esther, wife of Heber McGowan, Birdsboro RD 1.

Also, a brother, William, of 527 East Race street, Stowe, 18 grandchildren and 21 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be Sunday at 2:30 p. m. from the White Memorial home, Parker Ford. Officiating will be the Rev. James Slapinski, pastor of Coventryville Methodist church.

Interment will be in Coventryville Methodist cemetery.

And Jacqueline, who first came to the attention of The Mercury because of passport difficulties, is still unhappy. Though she was granted a month's extension, "it still isn't enough to see everything I want in this wonderful country."

"It's beautiful here and I only hope I can come again to visit," she said through an interpreter —her aunt.

PATRICIA and Jacqueline haven't figured out how to solve the language problem. Last time Patricia went to Paris her mother, who speaks French fluently, was along and did the translating. This time Patricia goes alone, and neither she nor Jacqueline speak the other's language.

"I've been studying a French dictionary and she's been studying an English one," Patricia explained. "But I'm afraid that we're going to have to use sign language most of the time."

L. HEIMBACH PICKED FOR EARL BOARD

Contest Brings Out Two-thirds of Voters

TAX COLLECTOR WINS NOMINATION

A heavy turnout of Democratic voters was reported in Earl township Second precinct at the primary election. There are 301 registered Democratic voters in the township, and the primary brought out an apparent two-thirds.

In the office of supervisor—long a heated contest in the township—Leroy Heimbach took the Democratic contest by a wide margin.

The vote was:

William Souders	75

In the contest for Democratic nomination for tax collector, the incumbent Harvey Moyer walked off with the prize.

The vote was:

Moyer	179
Robert Youse	66
Paul Willman	26

Paul Brumbach won the highest percentage of votes for the nomination as director.

The vote was:

Roy Geiger	130

The incumbent constable, Paul Mutter, again won the nomination for the office.

The vote was:

Mutter	186

Scouts Schedule 3-Day Campout

Approximately 300 Boy Scouts of the Neskenno District of Valley Forge council will compout overnight at the Lower Perkiomen Valley park in Oaks from 5 p. m. tomorrow until 11 a. m. Sunday. About 400 cub scouts will join them for Saturday afternoon.

Scouts attending the camporee will be from Collegeville, Trappe, Schwenksville, Royersford, Lower Frederick, Limerick, Skippack, Worcester, Lower Providence, Upper Providence and Perkiomen townships.

Activities Saturday afternoon will include signaling, relay, first aid, fire building, water boiling and games.

The Skippack Ambulance corp and the Lansdale Volunteer Medical corp will be on call during the weekend to provide emergency first aid if necessary.

An evening of campfire ceremonies will highlight the camporee on Saturday night.

GOP Voters Turn Out In Force To Back East Coventry Collector

Final returns from the heavily contested primary in East Coventry township showed Republicans turned out in record force to give Incumbent Tax Collector William H. Frick a 3 to 1 victory over opponent William A. Schenk Jr.

Lloyd Graham

More than 60 percent of all registered Republicans in the township went to the polls Tuesday night. Results, compiled after election officials worked until 6 a. m. Wednesday, showed 447 GOP backers voted. Frick polled 315 votes to Schenk's 129.

Lloyd Graham won the Republican nomination for township supervisor.

The vote was:

Lloyd Graham	286
Robert Sollinger	147

The only Democratic township race saw Mrs. Grace V. Carl edge Mrs. Dorothy C. Hennessy, 53 to 52, for the inspector of election post. Mrs. Carl claimed her victory on the strength of two absentee ballots.

Woman Wants Lawyer, Hearing Postponed

Justice of the Peace Merritt S. Wien postponed indefinitely a hearing on three charges against Christine Dorsey, 751 Walnut street after the plaintiff, Dawn Ziegler, 431 Hemlock row, requested time to get an attorney.

Late Count In East Vincent Gives Criticized Incumbent Landslide Win

Late returns from East Vincent township, received Tuesday after an all night tabulation, showed Incumbent Supervisor J. Kenneth McCauley soundly thumped his outspoken critic, Robert M. Cameron, for the Democratic nod in the November elections.

His choice for the party slate ended a controversy in the township which started two weeks ago after Cameron charged McCauley with "claiming all the credit" for the township board's lowering of the estate millage from 9 to 4 mills.

McCauley answered his charges by saying he only took a share of the credit for the work he did with other township supervisors to lower the tax rate.

The past week, pre-election tension mounted when a committee circulated some 800 pamphlets denouncing McCauley and openly supporting Cameron for the post.

Permit Is Issued For $26,500 Home

A permit for a $26,500 brick and frame home was issued Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kleinert of 859 North Evans street.

The house, to be built on North Washington street, is part of a 16 home development planned by Gerald G. Richard. Nine of the homes are already constructed.

The permit for the two-story house was issued by Building Inspector Lewis J. Kirby.

Bank Is Round

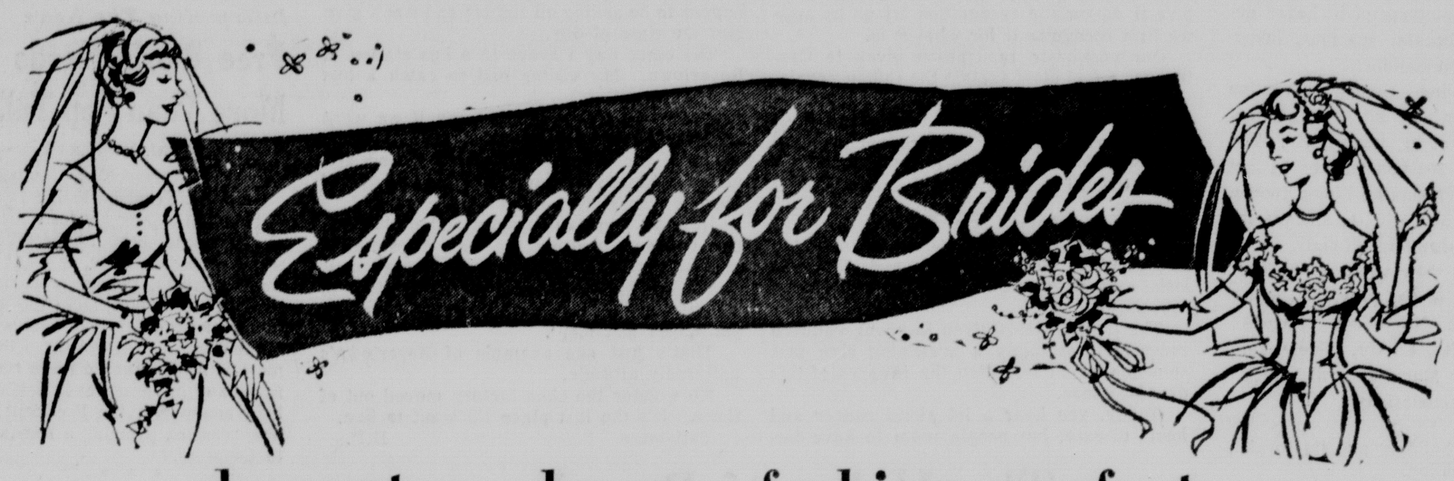

NEW YORK (AP)—Banking in the round has come to New York.

Operations at the Sixtieth and Lexington branch of the Chemical Bank New York Trust company are now being conducted in quarters remodeled on a circular plan. Not only is the layout of the main business office round, but the staircases are circular, as is the elevator shaft casing. It's efficient, say bank officials, as well as attractive.

Pablo Is Served

TUCSON, Ariz., (AP)—Patrolman David A. Tucker was driving to nearby San Xavier to serve a traffic citation on Steve F. Pablo when he had to slow down behind a pickup truck.

Tucker stopped the truck, wrote out a ticket for no driver's license and also handed the driver a paper which already was filled out. The driver was Pablo.

Unless we form the habit of going to the Bible in bright moments as well as in trouble, we cannot fully respond to its consolations, because we lack equilibrium between light and darkness.—(Helen Keller)

Luxury for High; Poverty for Low?

WITH great ado and with gaudy presentation of picture and story, the US State department opened its new building, close to the United Nations in New York Monday. You may have seen pictures of it, heard descriptions of its elaborate, spacious, luxurious, expensive accomodations.

The large drawing rooms, reception rooms, dining rooms and kitchens are not only grand in size, but in furnishings. The main dining room is 104 feet long by 54 feet wide. There are other smaller dining rooms, including some that are private, and for the exclusive use of top-ranking officials.

Dignitaries and their wives from foreign countries are to be provided with luxurious quarters. No doubt Khrushchev, Mikoyan, Tito, Castro, Gromyko, Sukarno and other Marxists will enjoy these plush accommodations.

The cost of this building and its furnishings is nearly $53 million.

It is said the dignity of our country must be upheld, and that our entertainment must be in keeping with the wealthiest and most powerful country in the world.

We have seen similar luxurious buildings and furnishings provided by and for the government of poverty-stricken countries, where misery was general throughout the land.

Every time we marked the vast amount of wealth spent for the enjoyment of public officials, we thought of the simple, hardworking, uneducated, suffering people who eked out the tax money to make them possible.

We always thought a little less luxury for the people at the top who live by the blood and sweat of the poverty-stricken people who inhabit these countries, and a little better food, education, housing, and clothing for the common folk of these lands would be a more fitting way to use such available resources.

Nor is our country an exception to these basic facts. The elaborate building for the use of our State department people, with its luxurious appointments, will be paid for by the common people of our country, whose pay envelopes contain only about three-quarters of the wages they are earning.

A little more for them and a little less for bureaucrats would be our idea of the way to promote human dignity and the prestige of our country.

Many of our officials live in luxury, work in luxury, travel in luxury, and enjoy fine food and beautiful things far beyond the reach of those who pay for them.

While this is expected in countries ruled by tyrants, including all communist countries, none of which practice what they preach with reference to sharing the wealth with the common people, it ought not to be true in democratic countries where the people rule and the moral law is accepted as the rule for human conduct.

Government people provide luxuries for themselves at public expense because thy enjoy them, and are not sensitive enough to their duty to deny themselves the luxury which they are in position to compel the common people to provide for them.

True enough, the Marxists are the worst sinners in this respect, but the rulers of all countries everywhere ought to restrain themselves to living, working and traveling conditions not unduly superior to the conditions under which the people of their countries live.

Albert Schweitzer lives humbly, travels third-class, and saves all he can to epxand his facilities for ministering to needy, suffering people. For that reason he is loved and honored around the world.

Luxury-loving bureaucrats and anyone who lives ostentatiously and with unnecessary extravagance might well profit by his example.

Plain living, humble government in the Western countries would stand out in sharp contrast in comparison with the luxury enjoyed by communist rulers.

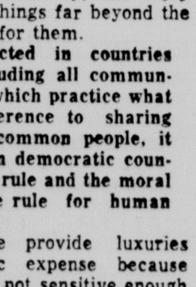

Marxism would make little headway against Western-democratic government officials who lived as humbly, inexpensively and with the same degree of devotion to the people of their country as shown by Wilfred Grenfell, Jimmie Doolittle, Albert Schweitzer and others.

PUNKIN CORNERS,

Editor, The Mercury,
Dear Sir 'n' Brother:

Wal, I see by the papers where a half-hour discussion program in which the panel was made up of talking birds, parrots, parakeets, mynahs, cockatoos, etc., was aired by the British Broadcasting Corporation. Must have been the cheepest program ever held.

And say: It takes a snail 10 years to travel the distance of one mile. By the time it gets there it probably has forgotten where it was it intended to go when it started out.

Hopin' you air the same,

GRAMPAW NED OAKLEY

Readers Say:

The name and complete address of the author must accompany every contribution, but on request, will not be published. Letters not exceeding 250 words will receive preference.

Two Heads Not Better Than One!

Time to Merge?

To the Editor: It is about time for the periodical reminder to officials in this area's many struggling little municipalities: the laws of Pennsylvania provide means to merge, annex, combine.

In times such as these, with costs of government spiralling, schooling costing a mint, roads, sewers, water distribution systems and trash collection needed—two heads are not better than one.

And we don't learn from experience, do we? Huge, costly schools only miles apart at Bucktown, Buchert road and North Franklin street.

Huge, costly sewage treatment plants across the Schuylkill river from one another. Now Colebrookdale doesn't want Boyertown and New Hanover isn't sure who it wants.

Collegeville, Trappe and Rhans beware of the State sanatarian.

How much easier to act and think like sensible men during times such as these. Rid the local government level of costly bureaucracy!

Boyertown FORMER POTTSTONIAN

Recognizing States

To the Editor: If the Castro regime is eventually displaced by another, before we give it diplomatic recognition let us be sure we first recognize it for what it is.

Our post-haste recognition given to Castro was a foul blow against the Cuban people.

The next time we should wait until we see how justice is administered, how well elections are run, and the freedom given to religion before we extend recognition.

Graterford HERB

Praises TB Tests

To the Editor: Congratulations to the Montgomery County Health and Tuberculosis association, and the Visiting Nurses' association.

The free TB tests given to young children recently is certainly a gratifying sign that someone hasn't forgotten the ravages of this dread disease.

Today, you hear a lot about cancer and heart disease, but people seem to have forgotten what a menace tuberculosis was 50 years ago, and even less.

Just because science and hard working doctors and nurses have fought so well against this killer, people take it for granted and never bother about precautionary measures to insure they don't get it. This is why TB has been on the upswing in recent years. People have taken it for granted, and are just plain careless.

And so I say once more, congratulations, to both these associations, and congratulations to the parents who had enough good sense to take advantage of this free program. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.

Pottstown GRATIFIED

Taciturnity a Fault?

To the Editor: I recall a few years ago that Pottstown ran a "friendly town" promotion during the Summer. There still are a lot of great comments on how friendly Pottstown really is.

Now I would like to suggest that Boyertown be given the title of the "most unfriendly town in the area."

No kidding, those people over there don't know the meaning of simple kindness. They view all strangers with suspicion (unless he happns to be selling oil rights) and won't give him the time of day.

The other day I drove to a bus station in Boyertown. My visitor had to catch a bus to Allentown.

We asked a nearby storeman if we were standing in the right place to meet the bus. He said yes. And we waited, waited and waited. Finally an hour later I asked him if the bus was always late.

He said nope and finally added that the one we were waiting for was discontinued and there wouldn't be another for three hours.

I asked him why he didn't tell us that in the first place and he answered, "because you didn't ask me."

That's just one example of Boyertown's unfriendly attitude.

No wonder the shoe factory moved out of there. It's the last place I'd want to live.

JUDY GARLAND and Sid Luft are heading for the headlines, because reporters are bound to ask her—soon—if their marriage is still on firm ground. Some intimates say that since Freddie Fields has been guiding her career Judy "doesn't need Sid any more," she's so fabulously successful; and he certainly wasn't around the house much when she was living in New York at 1 West 72d street. On the other hand, Sid's absences may have been due to big business meetings on the invention that could make him a millionaire.

The West Coast papers have been linking Zsa Zsa Gabor and Ben Gazzara in romance items, which is the funniest.

"Return to Peyton Place" is making the brass at 20th Century-Fox a bunch of happy men. It grossed a staggering $964,000 in its first week in key cities across the country—the best box office news they've had in three years.

Johnny's last Broadway job was 10 years ago, when he played Shirley Booth's co-star in "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" and won three awards.

One of Hollywood's most publicized married couples has been battling. Friends are hoping for the best but prepared for the worst.

Good news for visiting firemen who like to wander up to a box-office and buy a ticket: During the past week, only three Broadway shows were sold out for all performances: "Carnival," "Camelot" and "Mary, Mary."

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

BILL E., aged 18, is a talented college man.

"But he certainly is thoughtless," his grandmother informed me.

"Last holiday season, his grandfather and I were visiting at Bill's home.

"We had gone to bed about 11 p. m. Bill was out for the evening. But when he returned, he sat down at the piano.

"Normally, I would enjoy his music, but not at 2 a. m. Bill played so loudly it awakened the entire household, including his dad who was due to get up about 6 a. m. to go to work.

"Dr. Crane, what is wrong with teenagers that they are so thoughtless of the rights and feelings of other people?"

But many adults never peer very far into the future. In fact, there are millions of married folks who can't even look far enough ahead to live on a budget.

Ideally, however, the best test of adulthood is not how well you can solve mathematical problems in IQ exams or match words in vocabulary tests.

It consists in how well you can peer ahead of your nose into the future and adapt your behavior accordingly.

So here is a brief analysis of some of the teenage situations on which you young people can rate yourselves.

WHEN YOU brush your teeth, do you clean off the flecks of toothpaste from the mirror and thus save your mother this chore? Yes or no?

Do you play a musical instrument after the breadwinners in the family have gone to bed?

Many college students come home for vacation and stay up late at night because they expect to sleep till noon next day.

But their parents must get up at dawn, so foresighted youth should think of this fact and at least try to help their dad and mother.

Do you teenagers expect your Dad to do part of your courting for you by using his automobile, plus his gasoline? Or do you pay your way?

Do you make your beds when you arise in the morning and thus save your mother this task?

Do you ever ask your mother if there are errands you can run or groceries you can get for her? Or do you wait till she calls and scolds and begs and then finally goes herself?

Write to Dr. Crane at The Mercury for the booklet, "Tests for Good Parents," enclosing a stamped 4c self-addressed envelope plus 20c.

Inside Television

By EVE STARR

STARR REPORT: Continuing where we left off here are some more of the questions and answers on the pay TV question, gleaned from a panel of five experts on the subject: pay TV (PTV)? Probably not.

It is doubtful the film industry can turn out as much film of a quality worth paying for as the TV industry is now grinding out on a "free" basis (then most TV's programs today lack quality). There is no shortage of actors, but there is a shortage of good directors and a desperate shortage of good writers.

For no really good reason (except money, which is not always a good reason at all), we have become surfeited with entertainment. It's on the air almost 24 hours a day and has, I should think, become entirely too much of a good thing.

It is possible that the coming era of PTV will see quality increased and quantity decreased. One good two-hour drama a night should be more than enough. As a nation, we spend entirely too much time glued to our TV sets, senselessly staring at a screen simply because something is moving on it and making noises. I think with PTV the half-hour series as we know it today will disappear and that true drama, whether it be comedy, satire or tragedy, will come into its own.

WHAT WILL become of news and public affairs programs? This is conjectural, at best. Telemeter, however, is actively engaged in plans for making daytime hours available to schools and colleges, at no charge.

It is entirely possibly, if not entirely probable, that some PTV interests might devote a few nighttime hours to free news and public affairs programs in the national interest (and in their own selfish public relations interest),

It is customary and even traditional for large companies to engage in civic activities, and no industry has been more generous with its time and talent in the past than has the motion picture industry.

Will commercials find their way into PTV? The Telemeter people flatly say no. The shortest, quickest and most effective argument used by Telemeter salesmen in the Canadian experiment was the promise that the subscribing householder could watch PTV without seeing any commercials. Telemeter officials say it would be utterly foolhardy, if not downright suicidal, for them to try to sneak commercials into the system at a later date. It is obviously, the PTV customer would never stand for this—and PTV's first and last objective, equally as obvious, is to please the customer.

Interpreting The News

Free World Needs More Than Pep Talk

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

President Kennedy, listing 15 or 20 points in a program for national greatness behind which he seeks American unity, is using a shotgun which, though producing an effective pattern, lacks the impact of a rifle.

Apparently recognizing that more is needed than a mere codification of his program in a letter to a newspaper, the President is now reported planning a message to Congress.

His problem is to demonstrate that his proposals offer converging paths toward an ultimate victory in the cold war.

The old question arises, however, as to how many guns a general thinks he must have wheel to wheel before he can start an attack, and what can happen during preparation of a base for operations if the enemy is already attacking.

Kennedy's listing of sacrifices the people need to make is heavily weighted on the side of improving the image the United States attempts to project in the world. It is important, and in some parts essential, but not very stirring.

Despite nearly 15 years of effort, Western leaders still offer their peoples little except a drab, long-term program of containment which doesn't even have the merit of working very well.

The West seeks out industrialists, and conservative teachers and political leaders, in the uncommitted countries. The Sino-Soviet bloc finds the passionate organizers who can light the flames of unrest.

Facing an inchoate situation, the Western peoples have answered and will continue to answer the pleas of the leaders for money and armies.

They have been told about negotiations which they realize are more than the window dressing of conflict. They have not been called upon to enforce unconditional surrender of the enemy, or to free Hungary, or to really save Cuba and Laos.

They are not offered an opportunity to spend blood or toil or sweat or tears, but only are offered the harness for a long pull.

Then they get a list of objectives which offer considerable grounds for dispute over priorities and methods of approach.

Quibbling over closing down some obsolete military installations is equated with the face presented by the nation to three-fourths of the world's peoples because of its own racial troubles.

Council May Act

A buyer is being sought, however.

Other proposals for heading off the looming end of the line which carries a million passengers a year included:

(1) Assure PRT that the town will back up fare rises. Agree to less trips so that the company can cut down overhead.

(2) Advertise the town as an opportunity for an outsider who will have the co-operation of the whole community in helping make a bus operation successful.

THESE WERE added to suggestions that, the borough purchase and operate the line and that civic-minded citizens form a stock corporation to buy the firm.

Observers noted that a municipal operation — provided for in the Borough Code — might be less expensive. There would be no corporate income tax, no fuel tax, no license fees.

On the other hand, a councilman pointed out that administrative expenses might offset such savings. A director of transportation's salary and staff expenses normally would be higher than in private enterprise. There was some exception taken to the latter statement, however.

But the standard reaction by government heads has been that the borough should not go into the bus business. These leaders have stated they will make every effort to keep buses running under private ownership.

"It would mean a definite loss of retail business, and adversely affect other phases of business life as well," he noted. "But the public welfare is at stake, and must be considered above any loss of business to the retailer," he said.

If a community-wide committee is formed, said Pollock, the Bureau would call together its executive committee "at a moment's notice" to prepare for action.

3-Way Struggle To Spark Vote

INCUMBENT Sidney Peart, will oppose John Deegan, for the office of production representative.

In other posts, Thomas Kohler and F. C. Murray will duel for the office of skilled alternate representative, while eight men will seek three trustee posts. The three trustee slots will be contested by Raymond Woodley, William Richi, and Charles E. Hoffman for post 1; Bower Gabel and Francis A. Keim for post 2; and Wesley V. Fisher, H. Bud Detwiler, and Russell M. Gabel for post 3.

In this year's election, four offices could be subject to a runoff. They are the presidency, the chief steward office, and the first and third trustee posts. A chairman of trustees will be appointed after the election.

Seven offices will be unopposed in the election. These candidates will automatically go into office for a two year term. They are: Charles Kulp, incumbent assistant chief steward; Gerald Reitnauer, financial secretary; Elmer "Chump" Pollick, recording secretary; William Shutt, skilled representative; Douglas Pollock, incumbent alternate production representative; Earl Bicer, sergeant at arms; and Joseph Klaptowsky, steward at large, who deals with time study programs for the union.

MANAGEMENT UNION TALKS BREAK DOWN

Concrete Firm Strike Enters 23d Day

Negotiations between the American Marietta company and the striking United Mine Workers local 14648 Wednesday produced no apparent results as the strike moved into its 23d day.

State Mediator Edward G. Feehan reported "no progress" after the three hour session, explaining that company and union were still at odds on a large number of points.

Another meeting was scheduled for June 7, the first date company and union officials could agree on.

Feehan explained that the main issues are still wages, fringe benefits and contract language. The union also wants to negotiate each point separately while the company seeks acceptance of a package plan.

THE 37 UNION members struck the Moser road concrete firm on April 24—four days after the two-year contract expired. Four years ago the union struck for 18 days.

The company was represented at Wednesday's bargaining session by C. K. Morgan, manager of the local plant, and several representatives of the firm's district office.

The union negotiating team was headed by UMW Field Representative Albert D. Plusch and local 14648 President William Dabney. Other union representatives were James Hague, William Faison, Thomas Grace, Stanley Barto and Joseph Sikora.

Man Is Frightened By Dog, Stumbles

Aaron Embody, 60, of 14 East Fourth street, an insurance salesman, was delivering a policy to a North Hanover street home when the accident occurred.

He was taken to Pottstown hospital in a Goodwill ambulance and admitted. X-rays will reveal today if Embody's hip is fractured.

Former Councilman Admitted to Hospital

George Ruyak, 1033 Pine street, former Pottstown councilman, was admitted to Pottstown hospital under the care of his doctor Tuesday for an asthma condition. His condition was listed as good by hospital officials.

Moscow Claims Plane Buzzed Merchant Ship

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio claimed Wednesday night a U. S. plane buzzed the Soviet merchant vessel Artemyev Tuesday near Formosa.

The captain of the Artemyev radioed that the ship was approached several times by plane No. 131462 which, he said, then disappeared in the direction of the Philippines.

The radio added: "Details of this new provocation must still be established. However, these flagrant violations of the freedom of shipping on the high seas by aggressive Western circles have now become systematic."

CAR DAMAGED

Jeffersonville State Policeman James Palya Wednesday night investigated a one-car accident in Skippack township in which James A. Baker, Shickshinny RD 2, drove off Route 113 and damaged the front end of his car. Baker was not injured.

entry Police Chief Robert Conway, Bostic, who was riding with three other cyclists, veered across the road just as the car driven by Haring creasted the hill.

The collision hurled Bostic more than 30 feet across the road, mangled the motorcycle and driving in the front of the car. Annette, who was sitting between her aunt and uncle on the front seat, was thrown against the dashboard and fell to the floor.

Hospital authorities say she was treated for facial bruises that included two black eyes and a cut lip and held overnight for observation. The Harings, who were also thrown against the dashboad, were treated for shock.

Chief Conway said Bostic's three companions, who were driving south on Route 100, had already passed the car when the crash occurred. The four were returning to the West Chester area after visiting friends in Pottstown.

The Harings picked up Annette at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Yoder, and were taking her to their home where she was to visit for a few days. They were driving north on Route 100.

Bostic, an employe of the Brandywine Mushroom company in West Chester, is the father of three children. Haring works at Firestone Tire and Rubber company.

field (Hyacinth exchange) toll free.

Huxley users will be able to call Pottstown free of extra charges.

Chester Springs (Talmadge) subscribers will have local service extended to include Hyacinth and Williams 'phones.

Wiliams and Hyacinth users will be able to call Atlas and Talmadge free.

DISTRICT MANAGER William Grey said the base monthly rate for Atlas, Hyacinth, Williams, Huxley and Talmadge users will rise slightly because of the added benefits.

He pointed out that a two-party line customer living in any of the last four areas will pay only 15 cents additional monthly, whereas that is the cost of a single toll call now.

The new Atlas rates: single party—50 cents additional a month; two-party line —30 cent increase; four and multi-party —20 cents extra.

For Hyacinth, Huxley, Williams and Talmadge: individual residence 'phone—up 25 cents a month; two-party—up 15 cents; four and multi-party—10 cents additional.

These service changes will require extensive cable and central office equipment changes, Bell noted, accounting for the delay since the changes first were revealed.

The August 15 changeover date was set to coincide with new Pottstown area telephone directory distribution.

"Between my puppy and horses, I thought at first I'd have to give up the trip", he revealed.

The puppy he referred to was a year old Shetland sheep dog named Buppy, Holden's only companion on the trek.

"That pooch turned a deaf ear to the whole business. He didn't like the idea of spending his days behind a pair of horses. It got so bad I had to tie him to the seat beside me to keep him from running away," he said.

As Holden spoke, the reluctant puppy cavorted at the roadside with several other puppies belonging to his wife's cousin, John Richards, of Kemblesville, New London township.

"Then my horses started acting up when the traffic got heavy late Monday afternoon," he continued.

HE SAID one horse, Major, 10 years old, was accustomed to heavy traffic from years of pulling wagons on hayrides. But, he added, even the trained horse became skittish when cars swerved directly in front of the wagon at high speeds.

"As for the other horse, Rosie," he went on, "I don't know what got into her. Although it's her first time on the road, she never carried on so in all her nine years."

This modern day wagonmaster told how he encountered his first real trouble late Monday afternoon as he guided the converted "prairie schooner" through "rush hour" traffic in downtown West Chester.

"Between honking horns and stop, start driving, and kids rushing out at the wagon every other minute, those horses almost went nuts," Holden exclaimed.

It took two hours before we got out of traffic and I could let the team have a free hand to calm down a little".

HOLDEN PUT up the first night on the edge of Lenape park, on the outskirts of Pocopson. In true pioneer fashion, he cooked a light meal over a bonfire.

"After I fed and bedded down the horses for the night. I caught a little shuteye myself", he said.

To maintain the frontier aura of the excursion, Holden sleeps each night on a cot rigged to the inside of the wagon.

"It's a good thing I'm a sound sleeper and have a waterproof canvas 'roof' over my head at night", he chuckled. "Because Monday night it rained good and hard, and the pooch howled all night long."

Tuesday morning, after brewing a pot of coffee, Holden hitched up Rosie and Major and started the second day's jaunt.

He followed Route 52 through Kennett Square, Avondale and West Grove before taking a shortcut across country to New London.

HE RELATED how people stopped him throughout the second day to ask jokingly if they could climb aboard and go along.

"I told them they were welcome but they'd better hurry and pack their bags, because I wasn't going to wait. This usually deflated them. But once it didn't," he said.

"A little girl ran out to meet the wagon just south of Kennett Square. She pleaded with me to let her go along. Just then her mother came along and scolded her," he related.

"Then she broke away from her mother and ran into her house. A few minutes later I looked back and saw her running after me with a small suitcase in her hand, yelling 'wait for me'!"

Another time the same morning, Holden was hailed to the side of the road by a woman who asked him to let her Girl Scout troop take turns sitting at the reins.

BY LATE Tuesday afternoon, Holden reported, both he and his horses were tired. He decided to stop for a while in Kennett Square.

"But did you ever try to find a parking space to suit a horse and wagon?" he asked.

He said he finally abandoned the attempt, and went on to New London for the night. Wednesday morning he drove to Sticklerville, Md., to rest until this morning.

Today he plans to drive South along Route 50 to Elkton, Md., where he will spend the night before continuing his trek.

Holden said Wednesday he was uncertain now whether he would go to Berlin, on the eastern shore of Maryland, as he originally planned.

He planned tentatively to follow Route 213 southwest from Elkton to its junction with Route 404 at Wye Mills, Md., travel east on Route 404 three miles, then turn south on Route 50 to Cambridge.

Next stop, he said, would probably be 30 miles southeast of Cambridge on Route 50 in Salisbury. His destination would probably be Pocomoke City, Md., 25 miles south of Salisbury on Route 13, on the Maryland Virginia border.

This itinerary would put the total distance covered in the trip at almost three times the original estimate Holden made Monday, as he will return early next week via Dover and Wilmington, Del.

Upper Providence Incumbent Wins

Incumbent Republican supervisor Robert W. Griffith prepared for what should be a "breeze" in November's general election after handily defeating independent Republican opponent Harold G. Becker, 491 to 161 in Upper Providence township.

In the township's only contest for either party, Griffith made his strongest showing in the Trappe district, with a landslide 112 to 6 victory. In Becker's Mont Clare area, the loser came closest, dropping a 151 to 101 nod.

Reflecting the township's top heavy GOP registration and the fact that Democrats had few candidates, was the special legislative election vote:

Edwin Holl—498

Charles A. Dasch—52

In uncontested Republican voting, Township Police Chief Nathan M. Keyser was nominated constable. Eugene Bechtel and Robert McFarland will be school board candidates. E. Mae Kaiser will run for tax collector and Russell A. Custer, auditor.

My sincere thanks to the voters of East Coventry township for their support at the primary election.

William H. Frick

He is a member of the National Honor society; he served as vice president of the sophomore class. He plays varsity baseball, football and basketball.

U.N. Official's Wife Dies in California

She was 70 and had been in ill health for 10 years.

Her husband formerly was president and board chairman of Studebaker Corp. and later headed the Economic Cooperation Administration in Europe.

Hoffman was reported flying from New York to the family home in Pasadena, where funeral arrangements will be handled.

Survivors include sons Lathrop and Robert, both of Altadena, Calif.; Hallock, of Santa Barbara, Calif.; Donald of Libertyville, Ill.; Peter, now in India; daughters Barbara of Pasadena, and Kiriki of New York City.

CLUBMEN HEAR ADDRESS BY SCHWEIKER

25th Anniversary Is Observed By Group

Montgomery County clubmen, a group of licensee club representatives, is celebrating its 25th anniversary this week. Purpose of the club is to study respective problems and review regulations of the State Liquor Control board.

Highlight of the anniversary was a banquet on Saturday night at the East Greenville Fire company. Approximately 480 persons attended.

Some of the outstanding guests were: Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, congressman from Montgomery county; Rep. Herman B. Willaredt and Rep. Walter C. Frey, of the Montgomery county Legislature; the Hon. Robert W. Honeyman, judge of the Montgomery county Common Pleas court; Harold Spencer, district attorney of Montgomery county, and Franklin Snyder, burgess of East Greenville. Toastmaster was Harry J. Ginther, treasurer of the association.

In his remarks, Schweiker related his first meeting with the U. S. Astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. in Washington. "Shepard always used the word 'we' rather than 'I'," Schweiker said.

Congressman Schweiker reminded the clubmen that, according to Russia, they "have never failed" in space attempts, as we have in the United States. But he added Congress has received information that three men in Russia lost their lives before a successful launch and return was celebrated.

"Safety first" is practiced in the United States, he said. "We wanted Shepard back and we got him back."

SCHWEIKER concluded by stating he was dedicated to this particular field and would vote to "expand and advance the program of security and knowledge of the future."

Principal speaker of the evening was district attorney of Montgomery county Spencer who spoke on the Fifth amendment.

Officers of the Montgomery County Clubmen's association are Wilford DeLong, president; Albert B. Kerper Jr., first vice president; Stephen Nadwodny, second vice president; Edward Ellis, third vice president; Lawrence B. Hoffman, fourth vice president; Lloyd Kriebel, fifth vice president; L. B. Oberholtzer, secretary; Frederick B. Smillie, solicitor, and Jerry Ottaviano, sergeant at arms.

FUTURE ACCOUNTANT —Russell Lenhart Jr., Pottsgrove High school senior, will attend the Reading Business Institute in the Fall.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lenhart Sr., Pottstown RD 3, he will take courses in accounting.

At Pottsgrove he was on the track, baseball and basketball teams. He sang with the chorus and was part of the color guard.

Rotarians Will Hear Lecture at Meeting

Raymond Hartenstine will give a classification lecture at the meeting of the Pottstown Rotary club tonight at 6:30 p. m.

The meeting will be in Brookside Country club with Herbert Maach, president in charge of the business meeting.

Final Visitation Program Draws 100 Persons at Sanatoga Grange

The program was under the supervision of Valley grange 1880 of Red Hill with Malcolm Wehr, master, in charge.

The theme of the program was "The Month of May."

A vocal selection was given by Terry Knause. Frank Brinkman and Mrs. Katherine Steltz, sang a duet.

Mrs. Gertrude Stevens, was honored as the oldest mother at the meeting and Mrs. Steltz, the youngest and Mrs. Vernon Rapp for the most children.

A HISTORY of the American flag was given by Mrs. Arthur Detwiler and a pantomime presented by Frank Myers and Mrs. R. Knause.

A solo was also offered by Mrs. Steltz, who accompanied herself on the guitar.

Also honored at the meeting were William Snell, 89, of the Sanatoga grange, and Herbert Wagner from the New Hanover Community Grange 1712 of Fagleysville.

Winners of the dress contest are Mrs. Paul Monte and Joan Ann Stahl.

G. Sieber Pancoast Wins in Primary

G. Sieber Pancoast, Republican candidate for burgess of Collegeville, defeated his opponent Robert D. Hess, 202-132, in Tuesday's primary election.

Pupils Present Play at Meeting Of Golden Age

PENNSBURG — Mr. Paul Undercoffler, 477 Penn St., Corr., Phone OR 9-7244, Miller's News Agency, del. Phone OR 9-7467.

The Upper Perkiomen Valley Golden Age Club held its bimonthly meeting in the Pennsburg firehall and enjoyed "Caps For Sale," a play presented by third grade pupils from the Pennsburg elementary school and directed by their teacher, Mrs. Glenna Mitman.

Club president, Alvin Mumbauer, opened the meeting by offering a prayer followed by group singing.

Instrumental music was offered by Edwin Stoudt and Llewellyn Kline, followed by the chorus group singing. Anna Sloan presented a reading.

Members reported on the sick list were: James Gery, Carrie Buchert, Mrs. John Hildenbrand, Mrs. Quilman Hoffman, William Freeman, and Mamis Clewell. May birthdays were celebrated at the meeting by Ella Fox, Mena Geisinger, Emma Fenstermacher, and Mabel Kline.

FORTY-ONE members of the club attended a hobby show and visited the mint in Philadelphia. Two new members, John S. Sweinheart and Maggie Erb, of Gilbertsville helped to form a friendship circle of 88 members to conclude the meeting. The next meeting will be on Wednesday at 1:30 p. m., in the firehall.

Dana Joyce Miller, infant daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Orville E. Miller, pastor of the Pennsburg UCC was baptized in the church by the Rev. Charles Rodenberger, president of Lehigh synod.

Winners of the essay and poster contest in Pennsburg United Church of Christ are as follows: Mrs. Catherine Kuhns, Scott Wehr, Bertha Brauchler, Mary Ann Heimbach, Linda Sites, Michael Rickert. Two of the above mentioned winners are also winners in the Lehigh Synod contest, and their entries will be sent on to the commission on stewardship for competition in the contest for denominational awards. They are Mrs. Kuhns, and Rickert.

Savings Teller Shows Film at Club Meet

A film, "Our Friend The Atom," was seen by the Pottstown and Pottsgrove Optimist club Wednesday night in the Clover Leaf restaurant.

Delegates who will attend the second district convention from the two organizations are Randall Stoltzfus, Clyde Miller, Charles Wylie, Elwood Angstadt, Howard Heath, Gilbert Harvey and Art Rapine.

Wylie, president, was in charge of the meeting attended by 23 members.

What Makes Chubby Eat?

WHAT MAKES Chubby eat? He can't stop! He's addicted to cream pies, jelly sandwiches and strawberry shortcake.

Deep down, he may remember how Mom made every sweet dessert a rich reward when she threatened: "No dessert until you finish those vegetables!"

Dr. Fern

Those fattening treats may be salve for Mom's conscience if Chubby arrived unplanned, unwanted and at just the wrong time. Mom and Dad can't love him like they should and so they shower him with ice cream, candy and creamy cupcakes. To prove her love, Mom may try to protect him—too much for his own good!

He's Insecure

Worried and unsure, he decides that life in the fourth grade is just plain boring! He yearns for the satisfying pleasure of candy cigarettes and chocolate cigars.

Chubby didn't inherit the overweight problem like some children. They're born with lazy muscles and sit around all day without spending their calories.

Others pick up the high calorie habit from the family where even Fido shows some secretary-spread. They live to eat when they should eat to live!

Occasionally, an overactive gland triggers overeating. You have to eat extra sweets when a souped-up pancreas supplies you with excess insulin.

Like any heavy child, Chubby will grow taller and develop faster than his slim classmates. Still, he'd give anything to lose those extra pounds. Just a little encouragement and 1,200 calories a day can help him.

Wise Procedure

But don't take away pleasure-filled calories unless you can substitute something just as satisfying. You may have to lift some heavy weight off his mind before extra pounds can melt away.

A few rules can prevent the problem before it begins. Let the whole family eat sensibly. Dessert should be just another course.

Relax, and let Junior grow up. Don't stuff him like a Thanksgiving turkey! No fattening spread makes a good salve for anyone's conscience!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of The Mercury.

Potentially Rich Congo Area Faces Stagnation

EDITOR'S NOTE—Patrice Lumumba has been dead a little more than three months. Lynn Heinzerling, the AP's newest Pulitzer Prize winner, sums up in the following dispatch some problems that still plague the Congo.

By LYNN HEINZERLING

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The Congo now is counting the legacy left by Patrice Lumumba—unemployment, creeping inflation, stagnation and misery.

The postal clerk turned premier, who valued power above prosperity for his 14 million people, put the new nation on the road to economic disaster. And President Joseph Kasavubu and the ineffective government named to succeed Lumumba's have done little to reverse the dangerous course.

More than half the working population outside the secessionist province of Katanga is unemployed. The central government operates at an average monthly deficit of $12 million. Exports have fallen nearly 50 per cent. The value of the Congolese franc has been cut almost in half.

In wide areas of the country, the bush is creeping over valuable plantations. Interior roads, essential for movement of the country's cotton, rubber and palm kernels are disappearing.

At Kindu, 3,000 tons of tin valued at $4.5 million is stacked awaiting shipment down the Congo River, until recently blockaded.

A United Nations economist said the Congo's present course, "if not checked in time, will end in complete catastrophe."

Leopoldville is now infested with money changers. A visitor cannot leave his hotel without being approached by boys rubbing their fingers together and trying to buy dollars, pounds or any other stable currency.

The Belgian- or Portuguese-operated stores, once stocked high with luxury goods imported from Europe and America, now look drab and barren. Gone are the whisky, gin, cigarettes, fancy wines, luxurious fabrics and refrigerated goodies.

Meat continues to arrive from Chad and Rhodesia. The essentials are there. Restaurants still can provide a satisfactory meal. One can still buy the vodka which came in after the Russians arrived so confidently last year.

The Congolese national army of 25,000 men is largely responsible for the huge government deficit. It costs about $60 million a year, three times as much as it did under the Belgians.

An army private, who made $16 a month plus food and lodging under the Belgian colonial administration, now draws just under $100 a month, food allowances included. Sergeants and corporals, who a year ago were making $30-$40 a month, now are drawing from $3,000 to $4,000 a year as lieutenants, captains or majors.

The police force of about 8,500 men gets military pay rates and annual expenditure has risen from about $3 million to $10 million.

A major source of the difficulties was the refusal of the copper-rich Katanga Province to recognize the central government. The expected revenue from Katanga for the first year of operations was estimated at slightly more than $100 million, nearly half of the budget without including payment of public debt. The central government has not received a franc.

President Moise Tshombe, now under detention by the central government, may yet provide a solution. Some political observers here feel that Tshombe may never face trial on the charge of treason with which he has been threatened.

On the level of political morality prevailing here, they believe some deal may yet be arranged to bring Tshombe and his money around to cooperation with the Leopoldville regime.

The Congolese economy was not a difficult one to operate when this was a Belgian colony. The essential exports were copper, tin and other metals, diamonds, cotton, rubber and palm oil or kernels. Exports then were in the neighborhood of $500 million annually.

In the central government's territory, exports recently have averaged only about $8 million a month.

In a highly industrialized country, this near paralysis would have had a disastrous effect on the population. But it is no big jump for a Congolese back to his tribal village and a subsistence economy.

Even there, however, he can be hit, if the withering economy reaches the point where such simple consumer foods as dried fish and flour cannot be obtained.

One of the oddities of the situation is that more serious symptoms of inflation have not appeared. Note circulation has increased only from 6.1 billion francs at the end of June 1960 to 7.2 billion francs at the end of February. Prices in the same period have increased about 25 per cent.

Motorist Posts Bond For Court Hearing

David Bishop, 20, of Pottstown RD 2, Tuesday night waived a speeding charge into Chester county court before North Coventry Justice of the Peace Harry W. Anderson.

Township Policeman Howard G. Seibold stopped Bishop for allegedly driving 77 miles an hour in a 50 mile per hour zone on Route 100 the night of April 29. Bishop posted $30 bond for court at the hearing.

Attorney General Asks Drive on Rich Hoodlums

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy asked Congress Wednesday to help the Justice Department go after hoodlums and racketeers who "have become so rich and so powerful that they have outgrown local authorities."

Urging passage of a series of bills aimed at breaking up "vicious and dangerous criminal combinations," Kennedy said "only the federal government can curtail the flow of funds which permit the kingpins to live far from the scene," beyond the reach of local officials.

He estimated organized gambling does a gross volume of $7 billion a year, and helps support numerous other criminal activities, "including the bribery of local officials."

Kennedy testified before a House Judiciary subcommittee at a hearing on legislation dealing generally with organized crime.

He submitted a statement by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, seconding his proposals, but Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said he would like to hear from Hoover personally.

Celler said Hoover had declined an invitation to testify and asked Kennedy to try to change Hoover's attitude so the committee can question him.

In his statement, Hoover said the annual cost of crime now totals $22 billion, the equivalent of $128 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

The FBI chief said the bills proposed by Kennedy would enable the government to "proceed more effectively and vigorously against the well-entrenched interstate racketeers who are beyond the reach of local law enforcement."

The principal law asked by Kennedy would make it a federal offense to travel across state lines for the purpose of aiding racketeering.

Kennedy noted that most big-time gamblers employ couriers to travel about the country collecting their profits.

In tracing what he called a pattern, "where the apparently innocuous 10-cent numbers bet in a large city turns into tremendous profits in the hands of big-time hoodlums," Kennedy spoke in generalities. He offered to name names if the subcommittee wished to go into closed session.

Specfic localities mentioned by the attorney general included Beaumont, Tex., where state investigators recently uncovered a citywide crime festation; and Newport, Ky., where he said "there is wide-open gambling."

Kennedy also asked for a law prohibiting the use of interstate wire communications for the transmission of organized gambling information.

"In addition to the unique transmission situation in the field of commercialized horse race betting," he said, "the gamblers also have moved into large-scale betting operations in such amateur and professional sports events as baseball, basketball, football, and boxing."

SECURITY QUESTIONED

LONDON (AP)—Air Minister Julian Amery has ordered a check on security in the Royal Air Force and at the Air Ministry. He made the announcement Wednesday after a Laborite asked for assurances that security had been strengthened in view of disclosures at two recent espionage trials.

Steelworker Questions Legislators' $3000 Chit

HARRISBURG, (AP)—The $3000 expense allowance voted for themselves by the legislators last month was attacked in court Wednesday as a guise or ruse to raise their pay.

Attorneys for a Glassport steelworker argued before the six-member Commonwealth court of Dauphin county that the allowance actually was compensation in violation of the State constitution.

Three State attorneys countered that the payment of expenses has been done for years by the Legislature, that the courts have found that such payments are not in violation of the State's fundamental law.

The Court listened to 90 minutes of argument on the request of Gerald T. Wagner of Glassport for a preliminary injunction to halt the first payment of the expense money.

President Judge William H. Neely told newsmen following the hearing that a ruling will be handed down before May 31.

On that date, the 260 legislators are due a $1500 payment under the new expense allowance which was pushed through both House and Senate and signed by Gov. Lawrence last month.

The remainder of this year's allowance and all of next year's $3000 is to be paid in regular monthly installments.

In asking for a preliminary injunction to halt the payments until the issue of constitutionality can be resolved, Atty. Ludvick Zupancic told the Court:

"We can see very little harm in granting this injunction; very great harm if it is not."

He noted that $390,000 is involved in the May 31 payment, money which he said might be irretrievably lost should the courts eventually uphold Wagner's suit that the allowance is unconstitutional.

Zupancic indicated he expected the case to be fought up to the State's highest courts before the issue is resolved.

The opposing lawyers—Deputy Atty. Gen. Harrington Adams, Morris E. Gerber, counsel for Aud. Gen. Thomas Z. Minehart, and James A. Marsh, counsel for State Treasurer Grace M. Sloan—expressed the opinion that it is so clear that expense payments do not represent additional compensation, the injunction request should be denied.

The whole controversy over the expense allowance begins with article 2, section 8 of the State constitution, which reads:

"The members of the General Assembly shall receive such salary and mileage for regular and special sessions as shall be fixed by law, and no other compensation whatever, whether for service upon committee or otherwise. No member of either house shall during the term for which he may have been elected, receive any increase of salary, or mileage, under any law passed during such term."

The issue ultimately will be decided upon the question of whether an expense allowance is compensation within the meaning of this constitutional section.

Zupancic and his associate, James A. Ashton, made much of the fact that 24 senators would receive a $6000 expense allowance while the other 26 senators and all 210 house members are to receive only $3000, under the new law.

THESE 24 were elected in 1958 for four-year terms. When the Legislature raised its $3000 salary in 1959 to $6000, effective with the current session, these senators were excluded because of the section 8 prohibition against an increase in salary during the term for which they have been elected.

They have continued to receive the $3000 salary and $3000 in expenses all legislators were receiving in 1959-60. The expense allowance was dropped for the others until the new law passed last month.

The two attorneys for Wagner said it was absurd to argue that $3000 in expenses was sufficient for 232 legislators while the 24 senators elected in 1958 are to receive $6000 in expenses.

This, they said, supports their point of view that the legislators voted for the expense allowance as an increase in compensation and not actually to cover expenses.

Designer of First Lady's Clothes Is Infuriated by Paris Dispatch

NEW YORK (AP)—Reports and denials flew on whether Jacqueline Kennedy, wife of the President, is still buying Paris fashions.

The controversy got started in a Paris dispatch to Women's Wear Daily, New York retailers' paper, which said she definitely is.

The paper said a Paris fashion house "has the First Lady's measurements and the clothes are sent without any fittings."

This promptly infuriated Oleg Cassini, who serves as Mrs. Kennedy's personal designer.

"Not a word of truth in it," he snapped Wednesday.

He hinted that jealous competitors in the high-fashion industry might be trying to muscle in on his coveted role as clothing adviser to the First Lady.

"There is nothing wrong with Mrs. Kennedy's buying Paris clothes if she wants to," he said. "But it hardly seems likely that she would do it without at least informing me—her personal designer. She is much too gracious a lady."

But the New York World-Telegram & Sun said it had learned from a reliable source that Mrs. Kennedy's sister is buying the First Lady a wardrobe from Givenchy in Paris.

According to the informant, the paper added, the sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, is her same size and thus the clothes can be purchased without a fitting for Mrs. Kennedy.

The only White House comment came from Pamela Turnure, the First Lady's press secretary. Several days ago she said Cassini has designed Mrs. Kennedy's wardrobe for both her trip to Canada and Paris.

"It will be supplemented," she added, "by one French dress and perhaps a few other things from a New York dress firm."

Dick Clark, Wife Seek Divorce

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dick Clark, the TV idol of teen-agers, and his wife, whom he began courting in high school 14 years ago, are going to end their marriage.

A terse, joint announcement Wednesday that gave no more than a shadowy clue to the reason, came a year after Clark, 31, faced congressional investigators of payola. On the eve of that appearance there were rumors all was not well in the Clark household.

DICK CLARK

The statement, issued by a spokesman for WFIL-TV where Clark's daily American Bandstand show originates for a national (ABC) network, said: "It is with deep regret that we confirm the report of our impending divorce.

"We have tried very hard to resolve our differences, but have decided that it is best that we take this action.

"We have consulted our attorneys and the divorce papers will be filed in the near future."

A station spokesman, and friend of the Clarks, said nothing would be added to the statement. He said that so far as he knew the Clarks still were living together in their suburban Wallingford home. And he added he didn't know who would get custody of their son, born a year and a half after the Clarks were married in 1952.

At the time, Clark was a staff announcer for radio station WFIL, relatively unknown beyond the station's broadcast area. His wife, the former Barbara Mallery, maintained the modest apartment home the couple occupied in a suburb.

Both came from Mt. Vernon, N.Y. After high school, Mrs. Clark went on to Syracuse University while she attended a teachers college. Clark carried on his courtship the hard way — by making trips in a battered jalopy.

Throughout the marriage, Barbara held to the role of suburban housewife, always in the background and rarely speaking publicly. Mrs. Clark, blond and 30, did say once that being married to the teen-agers' idol, "is just like being married to anyone else."

Clark became master of ceremonies — some call him a disc jockey—on WFIL-TV's bandstand show and then was tapped by ABC for viewing that made him a national figure.

For a time, he had a second national television show, which ended soon after his appearance before congressional probers and his declaration that while he never was involved in payola he did have interests in numerous companies in music publishing and record manufacturing, pressing and distribution.

Hobbyist Is Undaunted

CINCINNATI (AP) — Attendants at Christ hospital are convinced that 29 year old Joe Smith isn't one to be jolted out of a hobby.

Smith, an Aurora, Ind., resident who is interested in citizen's band radio rigs, was burned when an antenna he was installing touched an 11,000-volt wire. But, while hospitalized, he set up his radio equipment—minus roof antenna — and began daily conversations with other radio enthusiasts.

Cooper Casket Carried Into Church

Modern Manners

By CAROLYN HAGNER SHAW

QUESTION BOX

QUESTION: Recently you discussed engagements. There is one point you did not cover—whether or not it is proper for the groom, or his family, to chip in on the wedding reception. My understanding is that it is all right for them to do so if the bride's family can't afford a big, expensive celebration. We are having quite a discussion about this. Some say I am entirely wrong, others that I am right. What is your answer to this?

Mrs. C. S.

ANSWER: That you are completely wrong! It is the prerogative of the bride's family to entertain in any way they see fit, or can afford.

The family of the bridegroom, or he himself, should never, under any circumstances, assume any of the expenses surrounding the reception.

To do so, even if people didn't know about it, except within the two families, would be completely out of line and in very bad taste. It just isn't done, that's all, and never should be.

QUESTION: Will you kindly settle a heated feminine discussion? Is it necessary and proper to wear a hat when attending a luncheon at a nice restaurant? If it is necessary, is a veil-bow type enough, or should it be of a large variety? Many women today prefer to go hatless, but we are interested in what is really correct.

Mrs. M. E. S.

ANSWER: My opinion is that a hat should be worn. Not only does it complete the well-dressed woman's ensemble, but it keeps her from having a messed-up hairdo.

I would advise staying away from a large, floppy-brimmed hat when attending a luncheon. These are more for afternoon dress-up parties.

For daytime wear, the more-or-less tailored hat is ideal. Remember that you not only attain that well-groomed look by wearing a hat, you also may have a conversation piece perched on your head!

QUESTION: Will you please tell me the proper dress for the mother and father of the bridegroom? Should we dress in regular street clothes for a four o'clock wedding?

There is to be a receiving line, and apparently we are supposed to stand in it. I have finally found out that the mother of the bride is to wear a green, pastel-colored, ballerina-length gown, with a large picture hat. The men in the bridal party are wearing dark suits. What should we do?

Mrs. A. O.

ANSWER: Since you will stand in the receiving line with the mother of the bride, I would suggest a ballerina-length dress, in a soft contrasting color to the green gown she is wearing. A hat, large or small, and gloves should complete your costume. Your husband would conform with the clothes worn by the male members of the wedding party. A dark suit, conservative tie and white shirt.

Congressman Protests Horse Grab

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Indiana congressman Wednesday protested against seizure of three horses belonging to an Amish farmer in Pennsylvania by the Internal Revenue service to satisfy delinquent social security taxes.

"It is particularly difficult to stomach when you realize this man's annual income is only $1864, from which he supports his wife, four children and an 83 year old mother," said Rep. Richard L. Roudenbush, R-ind.

The reference was to Valentine T. Byler, New Wilmington, Pa. Three of his horses were sold at public auction by the Internal Revenue service to make up for $247.78 owed in social security taxes.

The IRS says the horses brought $460 and that after costs were deducted a surplus of $37.89 was turned over to Byler.

MODEL MISTAKE

JAMESTOWN, N. Y. (AP) — A scale model of a proposed $800,000 municipal parking ramp garage was placed in the city hall lobby, with streets adjoining the tentative site included in the display. An alert citizen advised city officials that miniature cars shown entering the facility were driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

Prince Philip Gives Antony Friendly Pat

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip gave a friendly pat on the back Wednesday to his brother-in-law Antony Armstrong-Jones, for tackling a tough job. There has been talk that all is not sweetness and light between them.

Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, went to the Council of Industrial Design. Tony, husband of Princess Margaret, works there as an unsalaried design consultant.

The duke noted criticism that the government-sponsored council gives its awards to things that look fine but don't work.

"The center is not intended, and never was intended, to attempt to test the mechanical efficiency of any of the products shown here," the duke said.

"Therefore, I was delighted to hear that Tony Armstrong-Jones has been put on this problem, and I would like to congratulate him for taking on a job bristling with difficulties."

Armstrong-Jones hung his head and smiled.

Building Permits Up 176 Percent Over '60

Building permits during the first quarter of 1961 in Pottstown were up 176 percent over a similar period in 1960, the Pennsylvania State University Business Survey reported Wednesday.

At the same time, industrial power sales and new car and truck sales dropped 1 and 13 percent respectively, when compared with the first quarter of 1960.

The decrease in car sales, however, was not down as much as in many other areas of the State, the report noted.

Farmer Is Buried When Well Wall Sides Collapse

NAMPA, Idaho (AP)—A prominent Idaho farmer was trapped and buried Wednesday by a cave-in 155 feet underground in a water well he dug himself.

Two of his sons lowered themselves down the well but could not dig their father out because of recurring cave-ins.

Sheriff Dale Haile said there was no hope the farmer, Herbert A. Tiegs, 63, of Nampa, could be alive.

He said Tiegs was in a 10x10-foot cubicle when the sides collapsed and covered him with 15 feet of sand.

Tiegs was cementing rocks to strengthen walls of the cubicle which was to act as a service area for the well when completed. A pump would have been installed at that point.

The cubicle is connected to the surface of the ground by a concrete-lined hole 21 inches in diameter through which the water pipe runs. Tiegs was lowered into the well on the cable of the drilling rig by an unidentified hired man who ran for help when the cave-in occurred.

Tiegs' sons, Donald and Dale, who farm nearby, went down into the well and dug out about four feet of the sand, but were unable to make further headway.

Tiegs has dug wells like this before and is a veteran produce farmer of southwestern Idaho.

County, State

Tuesday night shortly after the polls closed that "the voting irregularities today were not isolated. They occurred all over the Third District and it is time for the Republicans of Montgomery county to stop pointing their fingers at political organizations in other counties and start cleaning up their own mess."

He also leveled criticism against the employes who set up the machines, and said that "qualified people regardless of political affiliation must be employed to set up machines before election."

WETHERILL called the criticism against the employes "unfounded" and publicy commended "the employes for their devotion and competence in preparing for this first special election ever conducted on voting machines in Montgomery county."

"I believe it is obvious that Mr. Doud was indulging in a bit of blatant political demagoguery. His accusations are an affront to the board of elections, which includes a Democratic commissioner, and to the employes who labored long and hard to set up this special election," Wetherill added.

He also pointed out that the three county commissioners, who constitute the board of elections, had a petition prepared before the polls closed Tuesday "in which we asked the County court to open those machines which did not work properly."

"As of 9:30 o'clock this morning (Wednesday) the county judges heard from our solicitor with his petition, but Mr. Doud was incommunicado," the commissioner continued.

DOUD TOLD The Mercury Tuesday night that Judge Honeyman ordered the voting machines impounded on his request. Judge Honeyman denied that the court order was issued at the request of Doud, or the Democratic party, but on the petition of Horace Davenport, the election board's solicitor.

Davenport and Philip Kalodner, chief of the Justice department's Civil Rights division, will make the inspection of voting machines next week. Kalodner is currently handling the vote fraud investigations in Philadelphia.

Kalodner declined to comment on the possible outcome of the investigation, but explained that "if there is proof of widespread and deliberate attempts to prevent the casting of votes for the Democratic candidate, then I assume there will be recourse through the courts."

He declined to say whether another special election might be called. "Any such prediction at this time would be sheer speculation."

* * *

WHILE THE official count will not be made until Friday, complete unofficial totals for the seat vacated by Floyd K. Brenninger show Edwin G. Holl an almost 4-1 victor. The vote was:

Holl	33,590
Dasch	8989

Both parties had post election statements and both were able to see "encouraging signs" in the returns. Holl, a Lansdale Republican, called it a "vote of confidence for my campaign pledge to prevent any 'land grab' by Philadelphia in the Congressional redistricting."

POTTSTOWN DEMOCRATIC Party Chairman Joseph A. Suchoza noted that Dasch carried Pottstown (by 88 votes) "and he did it by getting a lot of Republican votes."

"As late as 5 o'clock (Tuesday night) the Republicans were claiming that Dasch would be slaughtered in the borough. This showed a Democrat could win in a two party race in Pottstown," he continued.

He also pointed out that Dasch won the First ward, First precinct (the old Second ward) for the Democrats for the first time since 1955 when Earl J. Reidenouer was elected a councilman. Dasch carried the precinct 67-54 and the ward 109-100. The second precinct gave Holl a 46-42 margin.

Dasch also carried all three Second ward precincts (233-67) and the Fifth ward (97-70.) Holl took the traditionally strong GOP Fourth, Sixth and Seventh wards and the First precinct of the new Third ward.

In the entire district Holl captured 175 of the 191 precincts with Dasch scoring close victories in Bridgeport (12 votes); East Greenville (eight votes); Limerick Third district (eight votes) and Upper Merion First precinct (one vote.) He also captured Pennsburg by 91 votes and West Pottsgrove by 90 votes.

Holl will fill the unexpired term of Brenninger, who refused to take office after being re-elected to a fourth term last November. Passed over for a committee appointment, Brenninger charged that his usefulness in Harrisburg was ended.

Treasury Announces Credit for Brazil

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Wednesday announced $338 million in new credits for Brazil plus a rescheduling of other debts totaling $305 million.

The Treasury announcement followed an earlier announcement by the International Monetary Fund that it had agreed to a new credit for Brazil of $160 million and a rescheduling of payments totaling $140 million.

An announcement is expected next week on Brazilian credits from European suppliers, possibly totaling $150 million.

The total aid package for Brazil is one of the largest ever put together for any nation.

Sports car spice never came in so many varieties...Chevrolet!

Maybe you're a fellow with more or less normal driving habits who's looking for a change of pace. Or maybe you're a red-hot sports car buff. Either way, you'll find the fastest relief for that tantalizing itch in your driving foot at your Chevrolet dealer's One-Stop Shopping Center. He's got cars that run the sporting gamut like no others—nimble Corvair Monzas (2- or 4-door), charged-up Impala Super Sports (in five different body styles) and the kingpin of production sports cars, the Corvette. You can take your choice without chasing all over town. They're all stablemates under the same roof! CHEVROLET

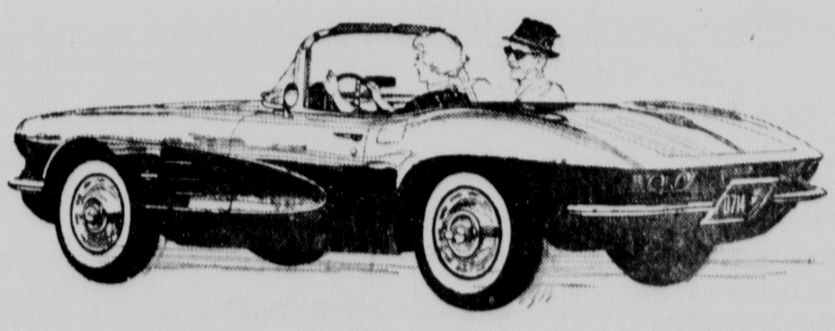

CHEVY CORVAIR MONZA CLUB COUPE
Nestle behind the wheel in one of those bucket front seats and see what Corvair's rear-engine design has done for driving. Steering that responds to the subtlest hint. Braking that brings you to precise even-keel stops. Traction that clings like a cocklebur. Nothing else like it in the land!

IMPALA CONVERTIBLE
Here's Jet-smooth top-down going at its breezy best. And, like all five Chevy Impalas, it's available with Super Sport equipment* that sets it apart from anything else on the road.
*Optional at extra cost, as a complete kit.

CORVETTE
Pure-bred sports car performance—the likes of which only the most elite foreign-built jobs could claim before Corvette began stealing their thunder. Optional (at extra cost) equipment tailors it to your taste—from boulevardier comfort to a real hair-raising version complete with Corvette's Ramjet Fuel Injection V8.

Do You Remember?

Those grand old days when Pottstown and area was in its infancy – Here's another photo that may recapture a few moments of eternity for you, a picture to stir your memory and let you catch a glimpse of the past.

Forty-three years ago, a photographer snapped the shutter on his camera and captured for posterity the informal gathering of a Perkiomenville family, shown above. Posing with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Zepp, are, front row, Jesse, William, Henry, Sallie, and Carrie Zepp. In the back row, with Mr. and Mrs. Zepp, are Estella and Eva. The picture was sent to The Mercury by Mrs. Sallie Yost, Perkiomenville.

Castro Concentrates on Young Generation

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro's recent moves in the field of education indicate a stepped up effort to broaden the base of his revolution by concentrating on the young generation of Cubans.

The first of these moves began with attacks on the Roman Catholic Church, which operated most of the private educational institutions on the island. It ended with Castro's May Day order expelling foreign-born priests and nuns and his announcement that private schools would be nationalized.

Broadcasts from Havana tell of a program of compulsory, universal education in Castro-controlled schools for a minimum six-year period.

This apparently is designed to insure the emergence of the coming generation in Cuba as a thoroughly indoctrinated and dedicated revolutionary group. It can mean the eradication of nonrevolutionary, non-Socialist thoughts in the Cuba of the future.

To effect this, Castro plans to train 35,000 new teachers, gathered from among university students. These will be subjected to an intensive, four-month course and will be used to replace teachers who up to now have taught in private schools, as well as in new schools Castro said he is building.

A third step is the construction of school cities, such as the Camilo Cienfuegos school city in the foothills of the Sierra Maestra, where the Castro revolution began.

The school city, a gigantic boarding school, is considered by the Castro regime as the answer to the problem of how to educate children who live in scattered communities in rural Cuba.

It also affords an opportunity for control over thousands of young minds.

Besides the obvious advantages to Castro from an indoctrinated youth, the intensified educational program will have an enormous propaganda impact in Latin America.

Currently in progress is a massive drive to wipe out illiteracy through use of so-called literacy brigades that will roam the countryside, teaching peasants and workers how to read and write.

Education Minister Armando Hart, 27, an ardent Castro follower, has said Cuba will eliminate illiteracy within a year.

By this, the Castro regime hopes to show Latin America it is able to accomplish in three years what was not done under all previous governments.

Kennedy's School Bill Survives Senate Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Supporters of federal aid to education quashed two attempts in the Senate Wednesday to revise President Kennedy's $2.55 billion school bill.

By lopsided votes, the Senate defeated a Southern amendment to protect segregated school districts and a substitute bill to revamp the administration program.

Observers looked on the test votes as signs that the bill has a smooth road ahead. The bill would provide federal grants to states for public school construction, teacher salaries or both.

In the first test, the Senate defeated 70-25 an amendment by Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S. C., which would have prohibited the federal government from withholding grants to racially segregated schools.

Then, on a 64-30 vote, the Senate defeated a substitute bill of Sen. William A. Blakley, D-Tex. Under his bill, each state would have kept 2 per cent of the federal income tax paid by its residents and would have spent the money on schools. Blakley's bill would have cost $812 million a year.

While the Senate beat down proposed changes, the House Education and Labor Committee approved a $2.5 billion federal aid-to-education bill. Its approval, however, was tentative. A later vote could change the situation.

But as tentatively approved, the House committee bill, like the Senate bill, would provide funds for teacher salaries as well as classroom construction.

The provision for salaries may have difficulty in the House because Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., in the past has opposed using federal funds for that purpose.

In general, supporters of federal aid expect more trouble in the House than in the Senate.

In the Senate, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., floor manager of the bill, called the Thurmond amendment "an effort to kill the bill."

Supporters of the bill said they did not want school aid clouded and threatened by the segregation controversy.

They said they were just as opposed to the Thurmond amendment as they were to any amendment that could ban federal funds to segregated schools.

Thurmond said he wanted to be certain that the school bill was not used "as another stick with which to beat the South over the head."

Although the amendment was defeated, a Southern senator who declined use of his name said he understood sponsors of the bill would accept some amendment designed to reassure the South that federal money would not be withheld from segregated schools.

Jaycees to See 'Abolition' Film

"Operation Abolition" will be shown and discussed at the meeting of the Pottstown Jaycees tonight at 6:30 o'clock.

Herb Dutt of Fleetwood, was elected vice president of the State Convention which was conducted in Reading recently.

Also at the meeting, Edgar Herbine, Pottstown High school, will be greeted and presented with the Teen-Age Road E-O award.

New members who were not inducted formally will be so at the dinner meeting.

Sportsmen's Club Installs Officers

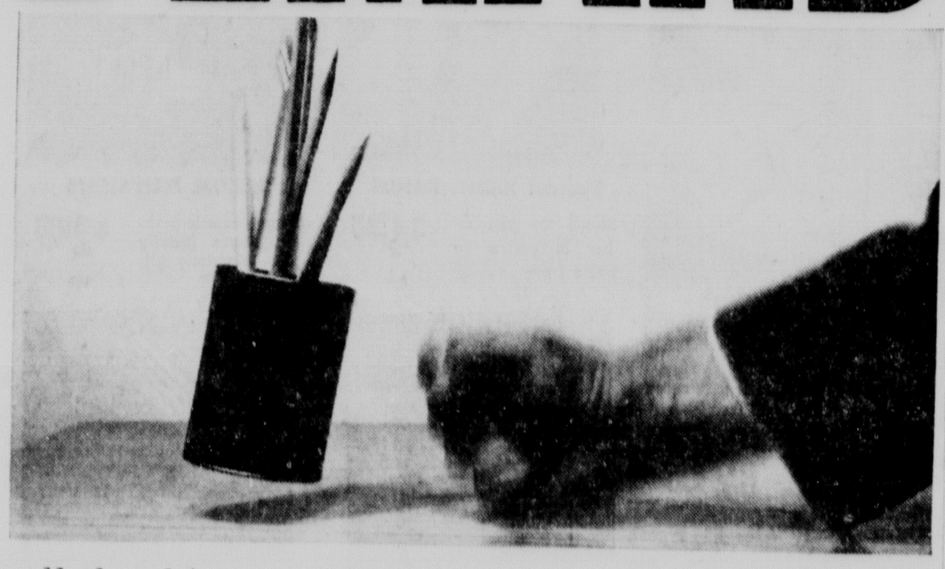

Officers were installed Wednesday night at the meeting of the Northern Chester County Sportsmen's club.

They were: Phil Kulp, president; Terry Persol, vice president; Bob Houck, secretary; Steve Rudick, treasurer; Herbert Evans, Hap Bradley, quartermaster, and Merv Persol and Larry Frame, cabinet representatives.

Also, Tom Moyer, advisor, and Harry Bradley, and Rudick, associate advisor.

Moyer was in charge of the installation and Kulp was in charge of the meeting.

Latest IN Science — Tourniquet Out For Treatment Of Snake Bite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tips on allergies, snakebites, and poisons are items on the medical newsfront.

ALLERGIES

The child is generally drowsy and tired, irritable, pallid, has circles under his eyes, and nasal congestion.

These are five cardinal signs warning that he's the victim of some allergy, four Tennessee doctors conclude from studies of 50 allergic youngsters. Other possible causes, such as anemia, must not be ruled out, but if allergy is responsible, the trouble invariably can be pinpointed and then corrected or prevented.

BLOOD PRESSURE

Potent new drugs have revolutionized the outlook in high blood pressure, known medically as hypertension. Ten years ago, only 5 per cent of cases could be controlled, but today 95 per cent are controllable, and that avoids dangerous complications of heart, kidney or brain damage.

Even mild cases of hypertension should be treated, experts cautioned at a recent symposium. They find that heart complications are more frequent with mild hypertension than in normal persons.

Be especially alert, they suggest, if your family has a history of elevated blood pressure. If one parent had it, a child has a 50-50 chance of developing hypertension. If both parents suffered from it, the child's chances of escaping it are only one in 10.

If a snake bites, forget the old advice about applying a tourniquet and taking a shot of whisky, Texas physicians advise.

They report that the tourniquet may do more harm than good to soft tissue around the bite. Cutting into the wound area with a knife also looks very questionable, and so does the practice of applying cold packs or immersing the leg or arm in ice water. The cold treatment carries risk of frostbite.

Their advice: Inject antivenom and antibiotics as quickly as possible, put the victim to rest in bed, and don't give him any alcohol. Doesn't help as it was once assumed to do.

POISON

Curious children are likely to eat or drink anything, including medicines and cleaning fluid. And a high percentage of youngsters who are thus accidentally poisoned tend to do it again, a team of Syracuse, N.Y., physicians reports in the journal "Pediatrics."

These poison-prone kids are likely to be highly active and mischievous, are more likely to take spills, and are often found in homes where both parents work.

EPILEPSY

Modern drugs can control epileptic seizures now in 60 to 80 per cent of patients, and "socially, such a patient should not be looked upon as being different from any other person, and he should be treated so," says Dr. Alex J. Arieff, neurologist-psychiatrist of Northwestern University Medical School.

"The person with epilepsy does not require any more rest than the normal individual. Contrariwise, it should be recognized that activity is helpful in most illnesses."

CONVALESCENCE

In their older years, some people bounce back quickly and others slowly from illness.

Childhood experiences play a role in their reactions, says Dr. C. Knight Aldrich, Chicago psychiatrist. If, in childhood, the person had been overprotected or didn't get enough affection, his convalescence may be prolonged. On the other hand, childhood attitudes of shame, or fear of being dependent, may prompt the person to try too soon to get back on his feet.

Record Plane Flight Test Is Scheduled

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Space agency test pilot Joe Walker is scheduled to try for a record 3,400 miles an hour in the X15 rocket plane Thursday.

Plans call for the B52 mother ship, with the X15 locked under its wing, to take off at 9 a.m. About an hour later, at an altitude of 45,000 feet, the X15 will drop away and shoot upward for the attempt to reach a speed five times faster than sound.

Flags Are Checked

OTTAWA (AP)—A member of Parliament said some of the U.S. flags flying on Parliament Hill for President Kennedy's visit had only 48 stars. Works Ministers David Walker told an applauding House of Commons today a squad of inspectors confirms every flag has 50.

South Pole Ice Thickness is Subject for Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — A scientific debate between the United States and Britain appeared imminent Wednesday on the question: How thick is the ice on the road to the South Pole?

This was indicated by a report from Dr. Albert Crary of the National Science Foundation, chief scientist of the U.S. antarctic program.

Just back from the cold lands, Crary reported he recently had found the ice about three-fifths of a mile thicker at one point on the trial than previously had been reported by Britain's famed Sir Vivian Fuchs after the latter's historic dash across the pole in 1958.

But Crary, addressing the foundation's headquarters staff, said it's still not clear who goofed on the measurements—his own party of explorers, or Sir Vivian and his colleagues.

The black-moustached Crary did remark with a grin that Fuchs "went through (the area) in quite a hurry"—a reference to Fuch's race to rendezvous with another British explorer, Sir Edmund Hillary. The latter had been heading towards the pole from a different quarter of Antarctica.

Describing an American trip between McMurdo Sound and the pole a few months ago, Crary said one of the objectives of the mission was to check on Fuchs' experiments regarding ice thickness.

He said the American trail actually crossed that of Fuchs at only one point—about midway between McMurdo and the pole.

"Our results are different," he said. "There's a discrepancy of about a kilometer (three-fifths of a mile) of ice thickness between our measurements at that point and those reported by Fuchs. The problem to resolve is which is right."

Both parties made measurements by setting off dynamite explosions deep in the ice and estimating the ice thickness by detecting the reflected sound waves on portable seismographs.

NIK-KENNEDY CONFAB NEARS AGREEMENT

President Kennedy Confers With Diefenbaker

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy moved ahead Wednesday with plans for a meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev by giving advance notice to senators and to allies in friendly capitals.

Informed sources said Kennedy and Khrushchev have reached agreement on a brief and informal get-together but final details remain to be worked out. Expectations are the two chiefs will meet in Vienna about June 3, following Kennedy's May 31-June 2 Paris visit with French President Charles de Gaulle.

Officially the prospective summit meeting still was being described as a "possibility." First on-the-record word of it was delivered to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wednesday morning by Undersecretary of State Chester Bowles.

In Ottawa, where Kennedy is on a two-day ceremonial visit, it was disclosed that the President had talked about a Khrushchev meeting to Canadian Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker at a private dinner Tuesday night.

From West European sources too came reports that the Kennedy administration had passed along the word.

In Vienna, the Austrian chancellery said it had answered "yes" to an informal Washington inquiry about acting as host to a Kennedy-Khrushchev parley.

The Austrian ambassador in Washington, Dr. Wilfried Platzer, said he had received no official word but his government would be pleased to have the meeting in Vienna.

Seoul Rebellion

Rebellious South Korean Marines and paratroopers ride through the streets of Seoul in a truck as they spearheaded other ROK forces that seized control of the government. Heading the military junta is Lt. Gen. Chang Do Yung (right, bottom), Army Chief of Staff. The coup d'etat toppled the goverment of Premier John M. Chang (center), who is under House arrest. At left is Gen. Carter B. Magruder, Commander in Chief of the U.S. 8th Army and the U.N. forces in South Korea, who has proclaimed support of the fallen regime and demanded an end to the revolution. A strong U.S. stand has been taken, but rebels still will resist.

Soviet Trap Suspected In Laos Peace Proposal

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union proposed Wednesday an independent and neutral Laos free of all foreign troops. The Western powers quickly spotted a Communist veto as a potential trap in the Soviet plan.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko submitted his proposal to the international conference on Laos shortly after Secretary of State Dean Rusk introduced an American plan.

Both plans envisioned a neutral policy for Laos and evacuation of all foreign troops to end the isolated nation's role as a pawn in the East-West cold war. But Abram Chayes, U.S. State Department legal adviser, said Gromyko had introduced "a double-barreled type of veto."

Rusk promised that all American troops would pull out of Laos if foreign Communist forces advising the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels also would leave.

U.S. troops now consist of a small training mission of about 300 men.

The size of foreign Communist forces is not known but may be several thousand men.

Meanwhile, a dispatch in Pravda, the Communist party newspaper in Moscow, for the first time admitted Soviet planes were airlifting supplies to pro-Communist forces in Laos. Told of meeting a rebel deputy premier and Capt. Kong Le, Laotian paratroop commander who overthrew the pro-Western government last August, at a small airfield on the rebel-controlled Plaines de Jarres and said: "They have come to meet the Soviet Aeroflot planes which under the agreement between the (rebel) Laotian and Soviet governments are to bring in fuel and food."

Secretary of State Rusk also told the conference here that the Pathet Lao rebels were violating the cease-fire in Laos repeatedly. A report from the International Control Commission in Laos also distributed a report to the delegates saying some sporadic fighting continued.

The American secretary emphasized that peace could only be guaranteed if the Canadian-Indian-Polish control commission for Laos is empowered too investigate truce violations without hindrance.

Truce investigations, he said, should be undertaken by the control commission on the complaints of various countries, including the governmental agencies of Laos.

The way U.S. advisor Chayes saw it, this would be the first barrel in the Communist veto plan:

The International Control Commission could investigate charges that the cease-fire had been violated—or perhaps that the Communists were still pouring in military aid to Laos—only if instructed to do so by the cochairmen of the conference, Britain and the Soviet Union. Thus if the Soviet Union said it did not believe there had been a violation, no probe could be made.

The second barrel was Gromyko's proposal that the control commission make its decisions by unanimous vote. That meant that the Soviet Union, acting through Communist Poland, could prevent the commission from functioning.

Under the present setup the control commission generally works by majority vote. The Western position centers on demands that the commission's powers and duties should be enlarged rather than restricted.

Russian Jet Use Of U.S. Base Denied

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—U. S. officials denied a report Wednesday that Soviet technicians and Soviet-built jet planes owned by the Moroccan government are using the Nouasseur U. S. Air Force Base.

The report, circulated Tuesday by Pentagon sources in Washington, said Soviet-built MIG jet fighters are located at the opposite end of the base from U. S. jet fighters and bombers.

A spokesman here said the report apparently came from the fact that 14 Moroccan - owned MIGs are based at Ben Slimane Air Base near Casablanca. This was a U. S. base until last March when it was taken over by the Moroccan military.

Morocco bought the MIGs from the Soviet Union after France refused to sell them French-made Mystere fighters.

REPUBLICANS GAIN POWER IN STATE VOTE

Pari-Mutuel Betting Tally Delayed; Race Is Close

Pennsylvania voters restored former balances of power in state and national legislative representations Tuesday but decisions on mayors and liquor assured changes in the status quo.

And Washington county voters, turning out in the heaviest numbers, gave a narrow margin in complete returns to legalizing pari-mutuel betting at harness race tracks.

John C. Kunkel, a Republican congressman for six terms until 1950, was sent back to Washington and the House of Representatives by the voters of the 16th district. They gave Kunkel a 2-1 margin over Mrs. Kathryn Zimmerman Vanderslice, a Democrat, and like Kunkel a Harrisburg resident.

The contest was for the remainder of the term of the late Walter Mumma, also a Republican. It restored the Pennsylvania delegation in Congress to 16 Republicans and 14 Democrats.

The margin, in light voting, virtually paralleled the political registration of the district—Dauphin, Juniata, Perry and Lebanon counties. Still to be heard from is the FBI, which began an investigation after Democrats complained of faulty voting machines in 29 Dauphin county districts. The 145 precincts of the county also favored Kunkel 2-1.

In the four special elections to the State House of Representatives three Republicans and one Democrat were elected, filling vacancies left by members of their parties and bringing to 109-101 the Democratic majority.

The winners were Democrat James W. Greenlee, 28, in Philadelphia, for the seat vacated by the death of Rep. Francis X. Muldowney; Republican James Esler of Natrona heights in Allegheny county, replacing the late minority leader, Willard Agnew; Republican Mrs. Elizabeth Wynd of Wyoming county, replacing her late husband, and Republican Edward J. Holl, replacing Rep. Floyd Brenninger, who resigned his post from Montgomery county in a dispute with the GOP leadership in the House.

Proponents of legalized pari-mutual betting in Washington county were prevailing 31,728-30,797 in the returns from 171 of 188 precincts.

Ten ballot boxes were sealed without tally sheets and the results won't be known until the official count.

Military Junta Claims Victory in South Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The ruling military junta, which overthrew Premier John M. Chang with reserve troops, now claims full backing from South Korea's powerful 1st Field Army. The junta moved Thursday to put a stamp of legality on its seizure of power.

Confirmation was lacking but the reported reinforcement from truce line soldiery—whether physical or wholly moral—would be another setback for U. S. authorities on the scene. The Americans had urged the junta to drop its insurrection and restore civil government.

The 1st Field Army is a war-tested element in the United Nations Command of U. S. Gen. Carter B. Magruder. The junta rejected Magruder's demand Tuesday that the rebellious armed forces chiefs restore control immediately "to the lawful government authorities and that order is restored in the armed forces."

Lt. Gen. Lee Han-lim, commander of the 1st Field Army, was quoted by the junta-controlled Radio Seoul Wednesday night as pledging his full support personally and the cooperation of his officers and men in achieving the junta's objectives.

Those objectives were outlined by Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young, leader of the military revolutionary committee, as eliminating political corruption and incompetence and rebuilding this porvery-stricken nation of 23 million. The junta proposed no shift in South Korea's pro-American, anti-Communist stance.

Gen. Chang, 38, the army chief of staff, named 24 officers to a temporary Cabinet. He was reported by a close source to be optimistic over the prospects of getting on with the job without further bloodshed.

Five or six persons were reported killed in the Seoul coup, staged before dawn Tuesday. No violence has been reported since.

While there was no sign of any military action developing against the junta forces, troops supporting the coup moved from the streets of Seoul to the capital's outskirts and dug in.

Despite the optimism reported with the junta, many persons believed that a key factor still might be the position taken by Front line officers and men, chiefly Gen. Lee.

The Seoul radio said Lee's statement was issued through the information officer at his headquarters in Wonju, 60 miles east of Seoul. This effort, which could not be verified independently, followed a visit by Magruder to Lee's sector.

Support of the coup from Lee would be a blow to Magruder's prestige and help materially in tipping the balance for Gen. Chang's revolutionaries.

Earlier, the newspaper Hangkook Ilbo quoted the general as calling on his men to remain neutral and saying: "We must bear in mind again and again that, under any political circumstances, our enemy remains the communists and our primary mission is to defend the fatherland against this enemy."

Councillor Lyuh Woon-hong, an independent member of South Korea's now dissolved upper house, said in Tokyo Lee is an able, ambitious man and if he supports the junta it probably will succeed. He added: "But if he stays with the premier or remains neutral it will fail."

The Korean navy and air force so far have kept hands off.

Distinguished Visitor

Ike Receives Clement Attlee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Minister Clement Attlee of Great Britain visited Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower Wednesday and then had lunch with the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

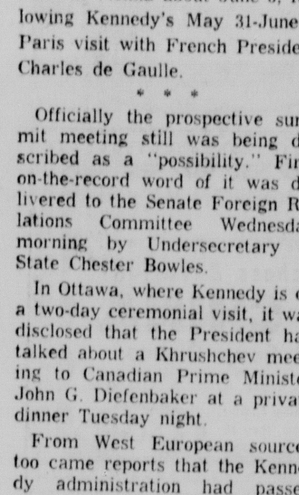

Attlee spent an hour with former President Eisenhower, a colleague of World War II days, at Eisenhower's office in Gettysburg. He said the meeting was mostly social but it also touched on the purpose of Attlee's visit to the United States.

Attlee, who was deputy prime minister in Sir Winston Churchill's wartime government and later served as price minister, is now vice president of the World Association of World Federalists.

He plans to address this country's United World Federalists organization in Chicago on Saturday. Paul Walter, Cleveland attorney and incoming president of United World Federalists, also sat in an the meeting with Eisenhower.

"It was a very great pleasure to meet my old friend," Eisenhower said in recalling his associations with Attlee.

AT&T HIKES DIVIDEND 71/2 CENTS

First Payment Will Be Due July 10

MOVE IS SECOND RAISE IN FIRM HISTORY

NEW YORK, (AP)—The American Telephone & Telegraph company Wednesday increased its common stock dividend to 90 cents a share a quarter as promised five months ago.

The boost, from 82½ cents a quarter, puts the stock at an annual rate of $3.66 or about 9 percent above the former $3.30.

The first of the higher payments will be made July 10 to stockholders of record June 9. The world's largest stockholder family, now totaling 1.92 million, will receive the dividend.

Only once before since 1921 has the big utility raised dividend payments. That was effective with the July 10 dividend in 1959 and followed the only stock split in company history.

From 1921 until two years ago the AT&T dividend was a famous $9 a year. With the 3 for 1 stock split the rate was raised 10 percent to $3.30 a share on the new stock or $9.90 on the old shares. The new rate of $3.60 on the present shares is equal to $10.80 a year on the old stock.

Senator Is Lost

PHOENIX, Ariz., (AP)—State Sen. William Sullivan stuck his head in the Capitol pressroom and asked:

"Where's the mines and mining committee meeting?"

"It's listed for Room 307," a reporter replied.

"I tried that," said the senator. "It's the men's room."

Your Horoscope

The Stars Say—By ESTRELLITA

For Today

STIMULATING aspects will prevail from noon on and, after a somewhat "dull" morning, you should feel mentally alert and surer in judgement. This will be the time to launch new projects —especially if they require a bit of daring.

For The Birthday

If today is your birthday, your horoscope holds promise of a most satisfactory year. Emphasis will be placed upon occupational advancement and financial gain during June, late September and December but, in the interim, it would pay you to consolidate all gains, since the stars will not be so propitious along these lines. Be especially careful of money matters in November, when carelessness or over-expansion could offset advances.

Social, domestic and sentimental relationships should prove generally harmonious—if you do your part to keep them so. This will be especially important in November, when tactlessness could invite difficulties.

Romance will be governed by unusually generous aspects during the next eight months and if you are single, marriage is a distinct possibility before the end of 1961.

Early July will be excellent for travel, and the first three months of 1962 should prove highly inspirational to those with creative abilities — and that means most of you!

A child born on this day will be extremely sensitive and will have to curb a tendency to hold grudges over long periods of time.

Witness Vows Campaign To Bar Price Rigging

WASHINGTON (AP)—The president of Westinghouse Electric Corp. pledged a campaign against price fixing Wednesday but told senators he saw nothing wrong with competitors offering the same prices.

"Identical prices are not evidence of collusion or conspiracy in any way," the executive, Mark W. Cresap Jr., told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

He defended seven sealed bids by Westinghouse and its chief competitor, the General Electric Co., to the Tennessee Valley Authority this year. In each case, the bids were identical.

"This would be very natural," Cresap said, because the bids likely were on standard products in the catalogues of the two companies. On such items, Cresap said, "we meet the lowest price of the competition."

But Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., the subcommittee chairman, said that while identical prices may not be unlawful, they are evidence of a lack of competition.

Kefauver brought up the TVA bids because they came after the recent federal price-fixing case.

In that case, a U. S. district judge fined 29 electrical equipment manufacturers and 45 company officials nearly $2 million after they pleaded guilty or no contest to federal charges of meeting illegally to fix prices. Seven officials also were sentenced to 30-day jail terms.

Westinghouse, GE, and some of their executives were among those fined and sentenced. Cresap was not indicted in the case.

The government has shown increasing concern recently over the frequency of identical bids by private companies on government contracts. President Kennedy recently ordered all government agencies to report such bids to the Justice Department.

After the price-fixing case early this year, Cresap testified, Westinghouse instituted a program aimed at preventing further price fixing by its employes.

Cresap, calling the price-fixing scandals a "sorry episode," described the new policy as "a program with teeth in it—to make lawful and ethical conduct a living policy in Westinghouse."

Business Upswing Pushes Market to Record High

NEW YORK, (AP)—The stock market climbed to an historic peak Wednesday as basic industrials, utilities and rails responded to snowballing reports of an upturn in the economy. Trading was heavy.

A new bull market confidence permeated Wall Street as the hour-by-hour readings of the Dow Jones industrial average made it apparent that this closely-followed market yardstick would close above the 700 level for the first time in its history.

Based on the rise of the AP average, an estimated $3.5 billion was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Motors were among the most popular issues as key stocks posted gains ranging from fractions to 2 or more points.

Woolworth was an outstanding feature, rising 6⅜ to 74⅜ on news it plans a chain of discount department stores. Korvette reacted with a loss of 2½ to the prospects of this league competition.

The AP 60-stock average advanced 2.40 to its new high of 252.60. Industrials rose 3.20 and utilities .50, both to new highs for the year, while rails advanced 2.90, their sturdy performance "confirming" the rise of industrials.

Of 1325 issues traded, 633 advanced and 508 declined. New highs for the year totaled 137 and new lows 8.

Volume was 5.52 million shares compared with 5.11 million Tuesday and was the largest since April 17 when 5.86 million shares changed hands.

Wall Street News and Views

Brokers Discount Current Threat Of Unsound Stock Speculation

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Some leading Wall Street brokers consider unwise speculation only a minor fringe to a generally sound approach to the stock market.

The comment came in the wake of a second warning within six weeks by Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, against the dangers of ill-considered buying of low-priced stocks and new issues of unseasoned companies.

A. Charles Schwartz, senior partner of Bache & Co., said that whatever abuses have taken place in the markets are infinitisimal as compared with the tremendous volume of business transacted daily and the number of securities traded.

"One cannot blandly refer to a 'stock market'," he said. It is a market for stocks in which most purchases are based on sound research and competent advice.

"There has never been a time in the history of Wall Street when so many competent analysts are devoting their full time examining the markets and the various securities.

"One's investment interests can be served best only by dealing with responsible brokers."

Gerald Loeb, a partner in E.F. Hutton & Co., said old-line major stocks have been strengthened by people selling them to get into lower-priced stocks.

"These stocks go into stronger hands," he said, "resulting in a minimum of speculation in such issues as General Motors and more speculation in such things as electronics."

The Securities and Exchange Commission's investigation of practices on the American Stock Exchange isn't likely to affect the trend of the market but may temper excessive speculation on any further rise, comments Goodbody & Co.

The firm feels that inherently the vast majority of stock buyers are conservative.

"Being conservative," it says, "they have not spent all their money on goods. As a result of their conservatism in purchases of tangibles, individuals have increased their liquid resources and the marginal savings are going into investments, or at least into what they hope will prove to be investments.

"All of this money is not being used to buy get-rich-quick, hot-tip issues. The great growth in mutual fund purchases and in monthly investment plans is strong testimony to this fact.

"The conservatism of the consumer, which is partly a function of prosperity, permits him through this same prosperity to invest in equities, thus further absorbing the supply.

"As a concomitant of the more serious investment by individuals has come a speculative type of buying by the uninformed, motivated not by conservatism but by the hope of quick profit."

Tractor-Trailer Upsets With Load of Chocolate

NORRISTOWN (AP)—A tractor-trailer loaded with 33,000 pounds of chocolate upset on Route 202 in Tredyffrin township Wednesday when it swerved off the road and fell down an eight-foot embankment.

The driver, Robert J. Creasy, 33, of Lancaster was brought to Sacred Heart hospital here with back injuries.

Creasy told police the accident occurred when he swerved the rig away from a car which had stopped suddenly in front of him. The chocolate did not spill.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love & Marriage

She's Scheming To Get Another Girl's Boy Friend

Dear Beatrice Fairfax

I'm a desparate 15-year-old who needs your help very much.

A certain boy, who means so much to me, is 16 and there's no one quite like him so far as I'm concerned. He knows I like him all this much, but he's going steady with another girl and would rather have her. If he keeps on with her for two more years and then gets married, there's nothing I can do, but it's not too late now.

I just don't think this boy should be going steady yet. He should play the field for at least another year and then that would give me a chance. Of course it wouldn't be proper for me to walk up to this boy and tell him what I think, because it's none of my business what he does and you know how boys are.

I prefer to write to your column in the hope that he'll read it. If he doesn't, at least I'll know I've tried and it will make me feel a little better.

This boy will probably know who this letter is about and just to assure him It's him, he goes skating regularly.

What do you think? Don't you agree that this boy is too young, doesn't know what he's doing and actually cheating himself?

JUDY S.

Dear Judy:

You've certainly worked out a fine case for breaking up this boy's current romance, haven't you?

Frankly, I'm not putting your letter in my column to go along with your idea of conveying your message to this boy, but because

I think you badly need some straightening-out yourself.

You say that the boy is too young, doesn't know what he's doing and is actually cheating himself. But, personally, I can't say that he's any younger, or knows less what he's doing, than any other 16 year old, boy or girl, who goes steady or wants to go steady—and that includes you.

People who know what they're doing, Judy, are people who have learned one important thing about life. This is that when you can't get just exactly what you want, you don't carry on about it and scheme and finagle to try to get it even if it means doublecrossing another person.

Instead, they go after something else — something that's within their reach and that will be a very happy substitute for the other thing they thought they couldn't live without.

What should you do to find a happy substitute for what you think you want most right now? You should concentrate on making yourself into the kind of girl everyone enjoys being with and wants to have around because she's so much fun, such a loyal friend and such a good sport.

If you'll do that, I'll guarantee that it won't take long for the "happy substitute" to show itself—or himself!—and you'll be glad and thankful that you cut short all this mean scheming for another girl's boy friend.

Spinster Sisters Drive Off Robber

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Two aged spinster sisters were beaten in their home Wednesday by a man who posed as a gas meter reader, police said.

Screams by the sisters, Julia Croghan, 90, and Theresa, 72, drove the man away empty-handed, they reported.

Scout Troop Takes Trip to Tioga County

Scouts taking the trip were, Harry and David Swavely and Jack Cresswell, seniors; Darrell Rantz, Robert Stout, James Hoxall, Pat Conner, and James Weller.

A hike into the canyon also highlighted the trip in conjunction with a four hour fishing spree.

A campfire was conducted by the leaders of the troop, who are Powell, Henry Robinson, troop committee chairman; William Egolf, assistant scoutmaster, and Robert Lemke, committeeman.

This was the last expedition for Robinson because he will be moving to Akron, Ohio.

During the campfire the tenderfoots were taught new songs and the senior scouts performed stunts.

Senate Banking Committee Votes Housing Boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a hurry-up move to keep the Federal Housing Administration from running out of home loan insurance authority, the Senate Banking Committee Wednesday voted unanimously for a $1 billion increase in the agency's $37.5-billion ceiling.

Meanwhile, the Committee—working on President Kennedy's $4.79-billion general housing bill—approved two key provisions he recommended:

1. New government-insured, 40-year, no-down-payment mortgages designed to help moderate-income families buy homes by cutting the monthly payment. This also provides more liberal terms to build apartments for such families.

2. Home improvement loans to run as high as $10,000 with a 25-year maximum repayment period. At present these are limited to $3,500 and five years.

The committee did make some changes in Kennedy's recommendations, but their actions indicated the senators would go along with Kennedy in most of his housing proposals.

The group interrupted its work on the omnibus housing bill to speed through the emergency resolution to boost the FHA's home loan insurance ceiling.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., chairman of the housing subcommittee, said he will try to get the Senate to approve the resolution Thursday and he hopes the House will act just as promptly.

A pickup in home sales, among other factors, has caused FHA almost to exhaust its home loan insurance authority, Sparkman said. The ceiling was set in 1959.

An $8-billion increase was voted then, but FHA meanwhile ran out of authority and tided itself over with a legal device taken away in the 1959 bill. FHA officials said the authority had dwindled to $680 million in March, the last national tabulation, and was well below that now.

If FHA's limit is reached now, the official said, no more loans could be insured until the pressure was off or the ceiling raised.

The general housing bill, as now written, would wipe out the dollar ceiling altogether, but that measure is not expected to get through Congress for at least several weeks.

Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind., was beaten 11-4 in a move to cut the new home improvement loan terms to a maximum of $7,000 and 15 years for repayment. He is the senior Republican on the Banking Committee.

The committee made only two major changes in the bill before suspending work on it until Thursday.

One involved a $750-million special assistance fund—plus an extra -750 million at the President's discretion — for various housing programs, including the new 40-year mortgages and the stepped-up home improvement program. The committee eliminated the discretionary $750 million.

The other change knocked out a provision which would have let FHA pay in cash losses on mortgages insured under the new 40-year program or the $10,000 home loan improvement loan program. This was designed to make these mortgages more attractive to lenders.

The committee decided that FHA would have to pay off in long-term debentures, as it does on home mortgages which it now insures.

French Champagne Industry Ridicules Red Instant Process

EPERNAY, France, (AP) — A champagne industry official bubbled over with instant indignation Wednesday night at a Soviet suggestion that "instant champagne" will revolutionize the business.

The Moscow magazine Soviet Russia said the French have bought patent rights to a Soviet method to produce sparkling wine in three weeks instead of three years.

"Besides," Medard told a reporter, "we have known for a long while about this process. The Russians talk about 'three-week champagne.' If we wanted to, we could produce it in a week. But it wouldn't be a champagne worthy of the name.

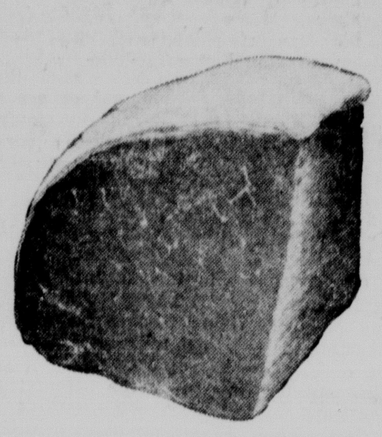

"The Soviet method is like a sausage-making machine: Put a little juice in at one end, add some sugar and yeast, and out the other end comes sparkling wine."

Bonnets Featured at Dessert Party Given by Century Club in Brookside

By ESTHER GRAY
(Mercury Society Editor)

Hats were featured at a Century club dessert party Wednesday afternoon at Brookside country club. Members and guests arrived wearing their prettiest bonnets, decorations were strictly from the millinery shelves and entertainment was a hat show.

Posies bloomed in profusion on the heads of ladies seated at card tables set up throughout the room. There were tailored hats too, tall, small, crushed and brimmed; and whimsies—those bits of nothing designed to hold curly locks in place with the least encumbrance. Colors were from the rainbow.

Naturally dresses, suits and jewelry were chosen to enhance the chapeaux; so the ballroom had a very elegant look.

On a hat bar, arranged by Mrs. Paul Emrich, was millinery old and new. Oldest bonnet was one worn in 1810. Styles through the years were displayed, leading up to the showing of the newest by Mrs. John Walters.

Flowers and potted plants were arranged in colorful straw hats; lilacs were in a bonnet box and geraniums entwined the turquoise stool before a dainty pink draped dressing table.

Here Mrs. Walters sat to put on the hats she modeled. A spectator commented, 'everyone she puts on is becoming." "Why not?" said her table partner, "with a face like that." Indeed a milliner could not ask for a more satisfactory model.

Carolyn Longacre, head of the home economics department at Pottstown Senior high school; Mrs. Thelma Robinson, who holds the same position at the Junior High school and I were asked to choose the prettiest hat among those worn by the ladies.

That was an undertaking of no mean proportions. All the hats were beautiful; so a set of points for judging was set up quickly.

Is the hat becoming? Is it the best choice for the dress or suit? Is it suitable for the occasion? These questions turned up at least 20 possible winners.

Jewelry and accessories entered the discussion and consideration. After three trips around the room, Mrs. William W. Manship was declared the winner. I do believe the pretty curve of the neckline of her black silk dress tipped the scales.

Mrs. Jack Wennersten was pianist for Mrs. Walter's parade of hats. Mrs. George Saylor assisted the model with her changes. Mrs. Eugene Smith served as commentator. The show was arranged by Mrs. Helen Brendlinger.

Mrs. Chester Bechtel, Mrs. Richard Leh and Mrs. Charles Stout presided at the buffet table. Their aides were: Mrs. Elwood Updegrove, Mrs. Samuel Harner, Mrs. Maurice Miller, Mrs. Clarence Smith, Mrs. J. Russel Reifsnyder, Mrs. Edward Sweeney, Mrs. David D. Detar and Mrs. William Brown.

Mrs. Earl Kerstetter and Mrs. Warren Park were cashiers. Mrs. Carson C. Potter was in charge of arrangements for the affair. She and first vice president of the club, Mrs. Harry Charles received.

Company Hosts Retirement Party For Harry Ginther

Remarks were made by the president and Hiram C. Ibach, vice president, and the honored guest who was presented with an overstuffed rocking chair. The presentation was made by John L. Reifsnyder, Purchasing agent.

Mary Susan Vasko Baptized at St. John's

The Rev. Thomas V. Dolinay officiated at the baptism in St. John's Greek Catholic church. A cousin of the infant, Patricia Yaculak, 830 South street, is godmother. Godfather is an uncle, Joseph Dzurek Jr., Hazleton.

Guests included the godparents, Miss Yaculak and Mr. Dzurek; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Vasko Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dzurek Sr., and Mrs. Nicholas Yaculak and daughter, Mary Ann.

MAY DAY'S HIGHLIGHT—The crowning of the May queen highlighted the annual May Day program presented Wednesday night at Lower Pottsgrove school. Maid of Honor Susan Nester crowns May Queen Kaye Drumheller at the 15th annual ceremonies. Other members of the court, left to right, are Jane Spacek, Linda Egelston, Gloria Weller, Jeanette Smola, Marie Nettles, Polly Prutzman and Susan Rosen. The program entitled "Joining Hands With Other Lands" followed a welcome by John Malenke. Pupils in grades one through six presented songs and dances typifying other nations. Sixth grade boys selected by Mrs. Naomi Brooks, Mrs. Betty Malenke and John Malenke, gave a demonstration of a bull fight. They were directed by Charles Rosenberry. Program co-ordinator was Helen Bartman, elementary vocal instructor. The committee in charge of the affair included: Norman Arndt, chairman, and Mrs. Mary Greulich, Mrs. Charlotte VanBuskirk, Mrs. Virginia Shultz, Mrs. Kathryn Dunmire, Mrs. Marianne Boone and Mrs. Betty Malenke.

William F. Honaman, lay missionary to Japan, spoke of the work of the Anglican church in Japan and showed slides at a meeting of the Women's auxiliary of Christ Episcopal church.

Mr. Honaman was introduced by Mrs. William Wright. Mrs. Alan Holt presented the speaker with an English dictionary which will be given to a Japanese student sponsored by the auxiliary's mission group.

Mrs. Wright presented Mr. Honaman with a check to be used in his work.

On behalf of the auxiliary, Mrs. Ethel Brown expressed a thank you to the speaker.

President Mrs. Wayne Grim conducted a business meeting following the program. Reports were given by the prayer guild and mission and rector's guild.

The next meeting, June 5, will be the annual closing dinner at Collegeville Inn.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Pierce Grimley, Mrs. Arthur Schultz, Mrs. William Peach, Mrs. Ira Stoughton and Mrs. June Morgan.

3 New Members Greeted by Mental Health Auxiliary

Three new members were welcomed at a meeting of the Mental Health Clinic auxiliary in Gruber auditorium.

Plans were discussed for the Valley Forge musical. Hospitality was in charge of Mrs. John Clarke and Mrs. Michael Chomnuk.

The next meeting, which will mark the season's end, will be June 19 at Gruber auditorium.

Robert H. Stover, Barbara Ann Bacon Speak Vows in Brethren Church, Oaks

Barbara Ann Bacon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Murphy, 36 West Third avenue, Trappe, and Robert H. Stover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Perce H. Stover, Phoenixville, were wed in Green Tree Church of the Brethren, Oaks.

The Rev. Wayne H. Dick officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. David H. Famous was organist for the occasion. Ferns decorated the altar of the church.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Arthur J. Murphy, the bride appeared in a gown of slik organza over taffeta. The dress featured an overblouse of chantilly lace. Her headpiece was minute flower petals and a veil of silk illusion. She carried a prayer book adorned with orchids and streamers of stephanotis.

Sandra Zollers, 151 East Seventh avenue, Trappe, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Ruth and Nancy Butler, Levittown, nieces of the bride.

Attendants were gowned in frocks of alencon lace over taffeta and brief bolero jackets. The maid of honor's dress featured an underskirt of pastel pink with the bridesmaids' in shades of yellow and green. Headpieces were matching velvet bands with small circular veils. Each carried a white testament topped with carnations.

Richard Mowrer, Phoenixville, performed the duties of best man. Seating the guests were Robert Shewman and Donald Gephart, both of Phoenixville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Murphy chose a dress of pink organza accented by white accessories. Mrs. Stover, mother of the bridegroom, wore a lace sheath dress with an underskirt of green taffeta and beige accessories.

The new Mrs. Stover is a 1960 graduate of Collegeville Trappe High school and is employed as a secretary to W. E. Markley and Son, Fairview Village.

Mr. Stover is a 1956 graduate of Phoenixville High school and is employed by the Synthane Corporation, Oaks. He is enlisted in the U.S. Naval Air reserves, Willow Grove.

STAR PERFORMERS—Conrad W. Weiser, Pottstown, and Doris I. Gack, Philadelphia, both Seniors at Muhlenberg college will sing the lead roles in two operas to be given Saturday night at 8 o'clock in Pottstown Junior High school auditorium. The presentation by the Muhlenberg college Opera Workshop will be sponsored by the Pottstown chapter of the Women's auxiliary of the college. The operas are "The Telephone," by Gian-Carlo Menotti and "Down in the Valley," by Kurt Weill. Both are directed by Frederick Robinson, instructor in voice at Muhlenberg and director of the workshop. Mrs. Luther Rife is in charge of arrangements for a reception which will follow the performances.

Women's Activities

Pottstonian to Star in Performances Sponsored by Local College Auxiliary

Final preparations for the Muhlenberg college Opera workshop's presentation were made by members of the patron committee of the Pottstown auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Harold Smale, 647 North Charlotte street.

The presentation is scheduled for Saturday night at 8 o'clock in Pottstown Junior High school auditorium.

The affair is open to the public without charge. Committee members obtained support through patrons for the "night out at the opera" sponsored by the Pottstown chapter of the Women's auxiliary of Muhlenberg college.

At the meeting it was reported that gifts totaled nearly $300.

Committee members are: Mrs. Ada Hutt, Mrs. Willis Henricks, Mrs. Lucy Tapper, Mrs. Ford Sands, Mrs. Harvey Kehl, Mrs. John Saylor, Mrs. Lester Yerger, Mrs. Ivan Hess, Mrs. Cora Schumacher, Mrs. D. Hunter Klink, Mrs. Paul Breisch, Mrs. Clarence Law and Mrs. Clyde Griffith.

The two operas to be presented are "The Telephone," a one-act comic opera by Gian-Carlo Menotti and "Down in the Valley," written by Kurt Weill.

Taking part in "The Telephone" will be Seniors Doris I. Gack, Philadelphia, and Conrad W. Weiser, Pottstown.

Accompaniment will be played by Marie Galati, an Allentown piano teacher and graduate of Cedar Crest college.

Miss Gack and Mr. Weiser also will sing the lead roles in "Down in The Valley". Members of the Muhlenberg concert choir will serve as the chorus.

Miss Gack, a graduate of Philadelphia High School for Girls, is a member of the Muhlenberg choir. Active in the Coed Service society, she is preparing for a career in elementary education.

A graduate of Pottstown High school, Mr. Weiser is a member of the Muhlenberg band, college choir and Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity. He is preparing for a career in the ministry.

Immediately following the performances, a reception will be given in the parish house of Grace Lutheran church in honor of the cast and its directors, Frederick Robinson, workshop, and Ludwig Lenel, choir.

Mrs. Luther Rife is in charge of arrangements for the reception. She will be assisted by mothers of Muhlenberg college students from the auxiliary and the auxiliary keywomen.

Women of St. Peter's Host Tureen Supper

A tureen supper was given by the Women of St. Peter's Lutheran church, Stowe, in the church social rooms in honor of new members.

The Rev. Victor Kroninger, pastor of the church, was master of ceremonies for the program. Slides were shown on the progress of the church educational building from the time the old parish house was torn down until the present. Special events given by the church also were included in the slides.

Approximately 125 persons attended the event.

Music Paints With Sound, Dr. Barone Tells Pottstown Area Artists Guild

Dr. Joseph Barone spoke to an attentive and responsive audience when he discussed the relationship of art and music at a meeting of Pottstown Area Artists guild. Music lovers joined guild members for the lecture in Cedarville Methodist church.

Following his lecture, a lively question and answer period took place and was continued in an informal manner when refreshments were served.

Director of Bryn Mawr Conservatory of Music and a former conductor of Syracuse, N. Y., Symphony orchestra, Dr. Barone is author of more than 2000 articles on music. For ten years he was professor of music at University of Pennsylvania.

He stated that today audiences are larger than ever by virtue of television, radio, hi fi and stereophonics. However they are less informed than the smaller audiences of former years.

Music, to be properly appreciated, requires a proper approach and a necessity to delve deeply into its meaning. Dr. Barone explained. It is not enough to say "I like this, or isn't that nice."

Cliches are used to describe the great masterpieces of music and all too often people merely read the short treaments on the back of the recording envelopes, he continued. Just as with paintings, one cannot enjoy music without a proper perspective.

He pointed out there is no short road to this, reminding the group that musical conductors spend a lifetime studying and often feel they have but scratched the surface of the subject.

Dr. Barone gave a few pointers on enjoyment of music and played records to illustrate them. Music is appreciated either by the phonetic or semantic manner, he stated. Popular appeal is by the phonetic, or sound. The student delves more deeply into the semantic, or meaning.

There are four basic ways of appeal, to the feelings; the emotions, the sub-conscious mind and the intellect.

He stated the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra is the world's greatest; however the audiences are not. As to critics, "many so-called critics write but do not fully understand what a conductor is trying to say. Often it is 'corny' but he is still sending a message."

Musicians today like artists are refusing to be bound by convention and tradition and are seeking new forms of expression, Dr. Barone told the group.

He played a recording of Beethoven's Sixth Symphony, first without an explanation and for the uninitiated the music had little meaning.

After Dr. Barone explained the moods the composer was depicting, they could visualize a happy picnic setting with folk dancing, a sudden thundercloud, a scurry for cover from impending rain and a sudden downpour of a violent Summer storm.

Four members of Girl Scout troop 10 of Trinity Reformed United Church of Christ received Curved Bar awards, the highest award in Girl scouting, at the annual court of awards ceremony in the church.

The affair was preceded by a covered dish supper. The Rev. Dr. John B. Frantz, pastor, offered the invocation. Table decorations were in green and gold with red flowers to signify the troop's crest and color of ties.

Name cards were trefoils with Girl scout insignia. Mrs. J. Albert Baker, leader, gave a welcoming speech and introduced Mrs. Collins.

She spoke to the girls on Senior scouting. Troop officers conducted the business meeting with President Melaine Hummel in charge. Secretary Sharon Baker commented on the activities of the troop for the present term. Patty Leightcap, treasurer, gave the annual report. Linda Oister, vice president, introduced all patrol leaders.

They are Carol Ragalyi, Shirley Nettles and Esther Johnson. At the conclusion of the business meeting, all members presented their mothers with gifts of plastic vases filled with vines which were made by the girls.

The court of awards was presented by Sandra and Sue Kruk, assistant leaders. Sandra Kruk lighted the three large candles and the ten smaller candles were lighted as the girls repeated their laws.

Flag bearers were Linda Oister and Shirley Nettles and color guard, Bonnie Galloway and Donna Lozlowski. Caller was Barbara Fizz.

Mrs. Collins presented five year pins to: Sharon Baker, Melaine Hummel, Sandra Hunsinger, Bonnie Knarr, Patty Leightcap, Shirley Nettles, Carol Schaeffer, Carol Ragalyi and Mrs. Albert Baker.

Proficiency badges were awarded to: Susan Antrim, second class and adventurer; Sharon Baker, tree, bird, adventurer, garden flower, home health and safety, personal health, animal raiser and conservation and Barbara Fizz, child care, cyclist, story teller, game and adventurer.

Margaret Miner, one year membership star; Linda Oister, adventurer, conservation, out door safety, beekeeper and personal health; Shirley Nettles, bird and adventurer; Carol Ragalyi, child care and adventurer.

Others attending were: J. Albert Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Neiffer, Christine Neiffer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leightcap, Raymond Rutter, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Ludwig, Mrs. Ralph Hunsinger, Thomas Hunsinger, Mr. and Mrs. William Knarr and Mrs. Eugene Hoover.

Also, Mary Ann Hoover, Mrs. William Antrim, Mrs. Ralph Oister and family; Mrs. Merrill Stoudt, Mr. and Mrs. Zolton Ragalyi, Dawn and B. Ragalyi; Mrs. Melaine Hummel, Mrs. M. Yocum, Mrs. Edgar Nettles, and children and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Trievel and family.

GRANTED SCHOLARSHIP — Carl D. Hartman, West Chester, a history teacher at Central Junior High school, has been granted a Summer scholarship to a Florida university.

He will study American history at the History Institute at Stetson university, DeLand, Fla. It is a seven week course.

Hartman graduated from Boyertown High school in 1955 and the West Chester State college in 1959. For the past two years he has taught history at Central Junior High school. He majored in Social Science and English in college.

The history teacher received a grant from Leidy-Rhodes Foundation for his undergraduate studies and plans to study for a full-time scholarship to a university.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur R. Hartman, 631 Rhoads avenue.

Rooster Kills Fox

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—The newspaper Politika published this:

Several nights ago a fox slipped into Uro Stojkov's hen house at the village of Centa near here. A rooster pecked away and killed it.

Although wounded in the fight to protect the harem, the rooster crowed proudly as the dawn broke, and farmer Stojkov came to take away the dead fox and skin it.

INSTRUCTIONS ADOPTED

PARIS (AP)—The Cabinet has adopted instructions for the French delegation which will meet Algerian nationalist rebels in peace talks at Evian-les Bains Saturday. It didn't announce what the instructions are.

AUXILIARY TO MEET

The Ladies' auxiliary of the Liberty Fire company, New Berlinville, will meet this evening in the company social room.

Mrs. Lorraine Heffner, president, will be in charge of the business session.

Third Grade Teacher Quits Lincoln Post

The Boyertown School board Tuesday night accepted the resignation of a third grade teacher in the Lincoln school, received a report from the supervising principal of the Boyertown Jointure, and re-elected its secretary and treasurer at a meeting in the board room of the Senior High school.

Supervising Principal Dr. Leon H. Farrin told the board he had received the resignation of Mrs. Patricia Brecker, who has taught for the past year at Lincoln school. The board accepted the resignation, effective at the end of the school year.

Farrin also reported the hiring of Margaret Leidy who will take the school census of the borough during the Summer.

Re-elected treasurer of the board was William E. Ellis and re-elected secretary was Ralph S. DeTurk.

In other action the board approved a request from the Elementary PTA to use $325 of its own funds to buy television sets for the two Elementary schools and renamed Richard Ludy to assist with the Summer playground program at the Washington area.

JUNIOR HIGH TEACHER GETS SCHOLARSHIP

Will Study During Summer at Bucknell

John R. Heycock, teacher and coach in Boyertown Area Junior High school, has received a scholarship to the second annual Summer Institute of America, at Bucknell university in Lewisburg. Studies are scheduled from June 26 to August 4, with Dr. C. Herschel Jones, director.

A grant from the Coe Foundation of New York has made it possible again in 1961 for Bucknell to administer a Summer Institute of American Studies for secondary teachers of social studies.

The institue will be a cooperative effort by the University department of political science, history and economics.

The program will emphasize a theory of public service, American institutions and the American economic system.

Heycock lives at 23 West Second street.

The Point Spread...

By WARREN HOWARD
(Mercury Sports Writer)

THE UPCOMING FOOTBALL SEASON should be a commemorable one, particularly in Ches-Mont league circles. Especially since most teams in the circuit will be winding up their spirited, but futile attempts at victory over Conestoga.

Ches-Mont clubs get their last crack at the Pioneers from the Main Line this Fall, so they'll doubtless be out to make the most of it. The Pioneers—who haven't been out of the title picture in more years than you can name—are quitting the conference.

MORRIE GRIGG

Nobody begrudges the Pioneers their step up in class, which is doubtless the way they look on the shift. It's what the Mainliners have been after for years. Now, at last, they get another crack at their old archrival, Radnor.

It was their relationship with Radnor that they could not cement while the Ches-Mont. Not even when the Ches-Mont's permanent perpetuating football schedule left an opening at the start of the season.

THE PIONEERS HAD to settle for Harriton. This undoubtedly irked them. So when the Suburban league expanded to four sections last Fall, it left room for the Pioneers to move in. And they are taking their "doormat"—Conshohocken—with them.

Ches-Mont leaguers will doubtless miss the Pioneers, because their strong football teams made for good crowds. But having them in the conference made for a relationship not unlike that of a man married to a social-climbing wife.

And while the Pioneers were noted for their football powerhouses, they were merely also-rans in the remaining sports. They completed their best basketball season only last Winter, but have never come close to winning the baseball or track crowns.

It is still probable, however, that they will still meet one or two Ches-Monts, since they will play only seven league games in their new conference. Chances are, that the remaining Ches-Monts had better start looking around for new football foes.

OLD-LINE CHES-MONT athletes won't recognize the conference in another year, with only Pottstown, Coatesville, Phoenixville, West Chester and Downingtown remaining of the original charter members.

But the latest moves have indeed made the league more compact. It was a long haul indeed, from Conshohocken to Coatesville, or vice versa. Conestoga's departure however, will leave foes with an added sense of frustration.

Especially Pottstown High's Trojans. Heber T. Meyers' charges have only two ties to show for 10 years of clashes with the Pioneers. Even in the Trojans' title years of 1956 and '58, they were unable to measure the Pioneers.

Chances are that the Trojans will have little trouble filling the spots left by the Pioneers. Athletic Director Morrell Grigg had a series in the works two years ago with Governor Mifflin of Shillington. Perhaps now it will be activated.

THE TROJANS WILL meet Hellertown on the basketball court this Winter. Perhaps this series also can be extended to the gridiron. And, perhaps it won't be necessary to find two new foes. A new school—a division of the Conestoga institution—is ready to come into the Ches-Mont.

Few Ches-Monts will miss Conshohocken. The Golden Bears have been out of their class for a couple of years now in league competition, and it's been known that they were turned down for admission to the Inter-County circuit.

It does break up the league's permanent perpetuating schedules however. It will mean that league teams must shop around for new foes in all sports. Or a new league entry. Everyone favors a 10-team league.

But the Conestoga departure won't break up the Ches-Mont. Not as long as Pottstown, Phoenixville, Downingtown and Coatesville continue to come up with an occasional champion. But it should end—once and for all—the bigoted cries "throw Conestoga out."

RAMS STYMIE PHANTOMS 3-2 FOR 7TH WIN

Co-Leader Pottstown HS Faces Coatesville Today at 4

John Miller pitched a one-hitter and drove in the winning run Wednesday, as Spring-Ford's Rams shaded Phoenixville, 3-2 on the Royersford diamond.

The victory — seventh of the year for the Rams — boosted them into a tie for the Ches-Mont league's Upper section lead with Pottstown High's Trojans. Each has a 7-4 record.

The Rams can actually back into the lead if the Trojans bow to Coatesville, Lower section leader. The two meet this afternoon at Memorial park.

The Rams and Trojans then clash in the "showdown" game Saturday.

IN WEDNESDAY'S game, Miller survived a shaky first inning, in which Phoenixville scored all its runs, to take the victory.

Miller surrendered a leadoff walk to Ted Travis-Bey to open the game. The fleet Phantom third sacker stole second, and was in scoring position when Joe Costira unloaded the Phantoms' only hit — a triple.

Cleanup Batter Hank Devlin then sent Costira romping home with a sacrifice fly, and the Phantoms were on their way to their second straight triumph over an Upper section leader.

Miller settled down however, pitching no-hit ball from that point. Backed up by flawless support afield, he allowed only five other Phantoms on base—four via walks and a hit batsman — while fanning 10.

THE RAMS meanwhile, were beginning to cause Phantom moundsman John Grohoski grief, which eventually led to his downfall.

The Rams tied the score in the fourth, when Ken Landis and Bob Harker hit singles, and each stole a base. Emmet Schaffer drove Landis across with a sacrafice fly, to break Grohoski's shutout, and Nick Tuscai singled Harker in with the tying tally.

Grohoski got out of the inning by retiring Ed Mogel, but Rich Brower singled to lead off the fifth inning, and promptly lit out for second base.

Grohosski then attempted to pick off the Ram centerfielder, but Second Baseman Frank Cook dropped the ball, and Brower moved on to third.

This set the stage for Miller to win his own game, and the hurler hit a bouncer which the drawn-in Phantom infield attempted to turn into a play at the plate, but Brower beat the throw for the game-winning run.

The loss was the sixth of the year for the Phantoms, against five victories, mathematically eliminating them from title consideration.

HILL OUTRUNS STEVENS FOR 74-43 'ROMP'

Record Was Set In 1917 By Asa Bushnell, ECAC Head

In his latest assault, McIlvain won a head-and-head duel with Stevens' Bob Lee in a record-shattering quarter-mile. He snapped the tape in 49.5 seconds.

The new record erases a school mark that had stood since 1917, of 50.2 It was set by Asa Bushnell, who is now head of the Eastern College Athletic conference.

Sam Morris and Steve Bliss each won two events for The Hill, to cushion the margin for victory.

MORRIS WON both the 120-yard high and 220-yard low hurdles, both times nosing out teammate Bill Johnson.

Bliss captured the shot put with a 48-foot, ½-inch toss, then hurled the college discus (somewhat heavier than its schoolboy counterpart) 126 feet, 3½ inches.

But it was the quarter-mile that turned in the day's thrills, as McIlvain and Lee—both unbeaten at the start—battled to a near-photo finish.

NEITHER HAD beaten 50.3 seconds prior to Wednesday, and Lee got an early jump on The Hill captain, and was pulling away as the two dashed down the backstretch.

He led by some six yards en-

Hill JV Golfers Nip Trojans 4-2

The Hill School JV golfers copped the final two matches to dump Pottstown High school 4-2 at Brookside Wednesday afternoon at Brookside.

The Hill won the No. 1 match with Steve Keim beating Ron Bailey of the Trojans 5 and 3. Charlie Eldridge gained the second verdict for The Hill 2 and 1 over Pottstown's Harry Leventhal.

Pottstown rallied to take top honors in the next two matches, to tie up the battle. Wilbert O'Dell was the victor over Hill's Oliver Transue 1-up. Judy Maute captured Pottstown's final win of the afternoon, winning over Steve Kizer 1-up.

The Hill iced the match with 1-up wins in the last two contests. Tuck Morse downed Bob Kovach in the No. 5 duel. Bob Hickok took the final match over Steve Bressler.

Mellick Allows 2 Hits; 7 Errors Aid Hill Win

WAYNE—Bill Mellick limited Valley Forge Military academy to two hits, and his teammates took advantage of seven errors to give The Hill an 8-3 win at the losers' diamond Wednesday.

Mellick allowed a single to Chuck Ford and a three bagger to Mike Haines in his seven inning pitching effort.

The Hill got on the scoreboard in the third inning and were never headed. Mellick aided his own cause with a leadoff single. Rich Sylvester drew a walk, and John Magenheimer moved both runners up with a sacrifice bunt.

Steve Scaff lofted a fly to left and Mellick raced home after the catch. Sylvester moved to third on the throw, and scored when Cliff Shedd grounded out.

Bob Prest walked to start the Valley Forge fourth. Haines then blasted his triple scoring Prest with the first Valley Forge run. Haines came home on Jack Angrilli's fly to center.

The Hill took a 4-2 lead in the fifth without getting a base hit, as Valley Forge committed three errors, a fielder's choice and a walk rounded out the inning for the Blue.

Valley Forge continued to kick the ball around in the sixth stanza. A walk, three more errors and singles by Mickey Amick, and Pete Bassett brought home four runs.

Ed Sweatt scored the other Valley Forge run in the sixth. He reached base on an error, stole second, went to third on a ground out, and scored on an error.

Marlins Leaving Puerto Rico for Charleston Site

SAN JUAN, (AP) — William P. MacDonald, owner of the San Juan club in the International baseball league, announced Wednesday night the Marlins are leaving Puerto Rico.

MacDonald said the Marlins would move after meeting Richmond Wednesday night.

In a joint statement issued with General Manager Joe Ryan, MacDonald said the club expects to play in Charleston, W. Va., as previously announced by league president Tommy Richardson.

In Jersey City, N. J., General Manager Paul Miller of the Jerseys said he had been advised by Richardson that the Jerseys will meet the Marlins in Charleston Friday night.

"RICHARDSON has made all playing arrangements," said Miller "and is en route to Charleston to make hotel reservations for our club."

"Internal pressure brought by member clubs and outside influences are forcing us to move," said MacDonald and Ryan. "They have made it impossible for us to continue operations in San Juan."

MacDonald, who transferred the Miami franchise to San Juan at the start of the season, said they were willing to continue in Puerto Rico although taking a financial loss but the other clubs didn't want to take the loss in revenue.

Struck-Prince Golf Set for 2nd Round

The favored Peach led eight into the second round, which must be completed by Sunday.

The first round play was marked by a series of close matches in the Struckmann trophy, including four which were decided on the last hole.

In addition to Peach's victory over Schaeffer, Lee Saettele shaded William Beaver, Woody Rath got past Jacob Sovia, and Joe Masleh advanced at the expense of James Smale, all by 1-up margins.

AL BENSING, who won the Struckmann cup a year ago, advanced to the second round of the Prince cup in last week's action, with a 3 and 1 victory over Henry VanDyke.

Conrad Stettenbaure shattered Ed Ermisch's hopes of a Struckmann cup victory early however, with a 3 and 2 win.

Ermisch was runnerup to Bensing in the tournament a year ago.

The closest match of the first round however, occurred in the Fourth Eight, with Blaise Sciarra shading Bill Bowden, 1-up in a match that went 19 holes.

The tournament, being held at match play, is contested at 85 percent of difference of handicap.

The sudden switch in the weather brought out the contestants, noteworthy in that there was only one default. This too, occurred in the Fourth Eight.

Phils' Buzhardt Three-Hits Reds, But 2-Run Third Leads to 2-1 Loss

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds made only three hits off John Buzhardt Wednesday night but they combined two of them with a base on balls and a sacrifice fly in the third inning for two runs and a 2-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

It was the 12th triumph in the last 14 games for the rampaging Reds.

In saddling the hard luck Buzhardt with his fourth setback in a winless season, the Reds did all their damage in the third inning.

Purkey started it off by waiting out a walk. He went to third on Don Blasingame's double to right field and crossed on Vada Pinson's long sacrifice fly to John Callison. Blasingame went third on the play and scored with the deciding run as Frank Robinson drilled a double off the scoreboard in right center.

Giants' Rally in Ninth Overhauls Chicubs, 4-3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Flashing to life in the ninth inning, the San Francisco Giants grabbed two runs from Chicago reliever Don Elston and beat the Cubs 4-3 Wednesday.

Ed Bailey, who crashed a two-run homer in the fifth, had knocked in the tying run with a ninth inning single before 8,469 fans in Candlestick Park.

So after being held to three hits through eight innings, the National League-leading Giants rallied their way to a fifth straight victory, their longest string of the campaign.

Elston, who relieved starter Don Cardwell in the eighth, retired the first four men he faced. With one out in the ninth, he hit Orlando Cepeda with a pitched ball and little Mattie Alou singled the runner to third.

Bailey followed with a single down the first base line to score Cepeda and Alou reached third.

Smith Is Winner For Falcon Nine

George (Buddy) Smith pitched Pottsgrove Junior High's second straight shutout, blanking Conshohocken Junior high on two hits in an 11-0 Falcon victory.

Smith's path was cushioned somewhat by a grand-slam homer off the bat of Skip Fredrickson, on a ball which was lost in the outfiedl grass in the fourth inning.

Six Falcon runs scored in the inning, boosting their lead to 10-0.

Brooks Rides 5 to 1st Money at Garden State

CAMDEN, N. J. (AP)—Jockey Steve Brooks rode five winners Wednesday at Garden State park, including guiding Tom Turkey to a five-length victory in the $15,000 Cherry Hill stakes for two-year-olds.

Brooks, 40, had only six mounts and missed only the first race when he brought favored Newsmonger home fifth.

He took the third aboard UFO, which paid $12.60 to win; the fifth on favored Miss Melisande ($6.20), the sixth on Inside Story ($15.00), the featured seventh on Tom Turkey ($9.00) and the eighth on Key Witness ($15.80).

ROBERTS TOPS CONSHY, 9-2

Big 1st Inning Ices Ches-Mont Win

Owen J. Roberts pounded Bob Lawrence and Archie Graham for nine runs in the first inning Wednesday, and went on to belt Conshohocken, 9-2 at Bucktown.

The Wildcats sent 15 batters to the plate in the big first, bombing Lawrence for six hits before he retired in favor of Graham.

Singles by Barry Fry, Pete Stanson, Joel Smiley, Muggs Piersol, Dave Berkey and Fry's double in his second trip sent seven runs scampering across when coupled with an error, and brought on Graham.

The Wildcats — winning their fifth against seven setbacks—kept Graham in hot water over the remaining distance by waiting out seven walks, but were unable to score further.

The losers reached reliever Charles Reinstein for two runs in the top of the sixth, but otherwise never threatened.

Burgess Bats Pirates To 4-3 Nod Over Cards

PITTSBURGH (AP — Smoky Burgess walloped a double and a single Wednesday night, driving in three of Pittsburgh's four runs as the Pirates edged the St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 at Forbes Field.

Pirate starter Vinegar Bend Mizell hurled seven innings in notching his third victory against one defeat. The big left-hander yielded 10 hits and all three of St. Louis' runs before being relieved by Elroy Face in the eighth.

Upper Perkiomen High Wins First; Beats Ambler After Big 4th, 8-7

Upper Perkiomen High school scored four runs in the fourth inning and held off Ambler High's late inning scoring to win its first game of the year 8-7.

Singles by Bob Breyer and Jim Brey and a walk to Jim Raymond loaded the bases. Dan Stoudt connected for a double to score all three men and give Upper Perkiomen the lead.

Jack Decenerino tripled for Ambler and stole home to tie the score 3-3 in the second.

UPPER PERKIOMEN broke loose with four runs in the fourth to regain the lead, as Raymond, Stoudt, Charlie Bricker, Breyer collected singles and Howard Cashatt doubled to account for the runs.

The Indians scored their final run in the fifth to take a commanding 8-3 lead. Stoudt reached base on an error, and later scored on Raymond's single.

Henry pounded his second homer of the afternoon. There was one man on at the time and the score read 8-5. The losers got a double by Dick Nicholas and single by Decenero in the same inning to make it 8-6.

A walk a fielders choice and an error gave the Ambler nine another run in the seventh but Perkiomen held on for the win.

McIlvain Breaks Hill '440' Mark

The record which tumbled in the race was the oldest still on the books at The Hill, and McIlvain's hardest race to date. He has now been unbeaten since the last race of his Fourth Form (Sophomore) year.

VFMA Outfit Is 78-39 Winner Over Prep Squad

Tom Lucas won every first place in the weight events, and Valley Forge Military academy got every first in the field events to defeat Perkiomen Prep 78-39 on Valley Forge's home grounds.

Jere Stauffer turned in the best performance for Perkiomen in a losing cause. He took two of the Preps' three firsts. Stauffer won the 100 yard dash with a 10.7 clocking and captured the 220 in 23 seconds flat.

Bill Leith garnered the only other Perkiomen first. He ran the 220 and beat out teammate Norm Bate. The winning time was 54.2.

Bill Tyner was a big factor in the Valley Forge win. His first came in the 180 yard low hurdles and the broad jump.

Jim Glennan was also a double winner for the homesters coming in first in the 120 yard high hurdles and the high jump.

Armstrong Flings 4-Hit Shutout In I-C Contest

BRIDGEPORT—A Bridgeport error in the first inning gave Jim Armstrong all the cushion he needed, but Pottsgrove batters drove in five more runs in a 6-0 win over the Dragons Wednesday.

Armstrong pitched a four-hit shutout, and Sal Ellow's overthrow of third base with Dave Hoffman aboard allowed the Birds to score a run in the first inning. Hoffman had doubled.

It proved all the margin Armstrong needed as he fanned seven and walked but two, but the Birds got single runs in the second and sixth, adding three more in the fourth.

In the fourth, Mike LaHoda and Dave Rumler walked, LaHoda scoring on a single by Wayne Hurst. Bill Logan then doubled home both Rumler and Hurst.

Logan—who had three RBI for the day—also drove in the final run in the sixth. Again LaHoda was aboard via a single and a steal.

Falconettes Cop 10-0 Win Over C-T Outfit

The Pottsgrove High softball team smacked out 14 hits and got shutout pitching from Judy Neiman and Linda Young to blank Collegeville-Trappe 10-0, Wednesday.

Scheetz in 100-Mile Event at Langhorne

LANGHORNE, Pa. — Tommy Scheetz, popular Pottstown driver, has entered the 100-mile Sportsman 1961 Futurity scheduled for the Langhorne speedway, Sunday.

Scheetz, a member of PROS, has done most of his racing in the Delaware Valley. The veteran of ten seasons of short track campaigning will be piloting a 1937 Ford in the inaugural running of the Futurity.

Qualifying trials, to determine the starting field and positions, will be staged on Saturday.

SZUZINA GETS NOD

COMACK, N. Y., (AP) — Franz Szuzina, 171, of Valley Stream, N.Y., survived a seventh round knockdown and easily outpointed Jerry Luedee, 172¼, of New Haven, Conn., on a 10-round bout at the Long Island arena Wednesday night.

Tigers Top Orioles 9-1 On 15-Hit Bombardment

BALTIMORE (AP) — Phil Regan pitched a six-hit, 9-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Wednesday night as the Detroit Tigers swept the three-game series and stretched their American League lead to five games.

Detroit continued its assault on Baltimore pitching with 15 hits. In the three-game set, the Tigers made 42 hits and 29 runs.

Regan, a 24-year-old right-hander, hurled his third complete game in 11 days. The only Oriole run was a lead-off homer in the fourth by Brooks Robinson. The hit extended Robinson's hitting streak to 16 games.

Regan, now 4-0 has allowed only eight runs in 34 1-3 innings, with five of the runs scoring on bases-empty homers.

Al Kaline, who returned to the Detroit lineup after missing three games with a pulled leg muscle, clubbed a triple and a double and drove in three runs. Rocky Colavito and Chico Fernandez each drove in a pair.

The Tigers scored one run in the first inning, and then rocked Oriole loser Jack Fisher for two more in the fifth and four in the seventh. The final two runs came off Wes Stock in the eighth.

The defeat was the fifth in a row for Baltimore, which has a 15-16 record and is in danger of dropping into the second division in the American League.

Nats Cop 5th in Row, Outlast Yankees 8-7

NEW YORK (AP)—The surprising Washington Senators nipped a late surge by the New York Yankees Wednesday and won their fifth straight game 8-7 despite 14 Yank hits.

A comfortable 8-1 lead shrunk to 8-6 in the eighth and finally 8-7 in the ninth but the Senators held on grimly to win.

Washington took an 8-1 lead into the eighth with Pete Burnside rolling along on a five-hitter. The Yanks rose up with five runs including a two-run homer by Roger Maris before relief pitcher Marty Kutyna finally made Bill Skowron hit into an inning-ending force play with the bases loaded.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Final Tally Shows Both Parties Favor Republican Gorton as Burgess

Belated returns from the Primary election in Spring City Tuesday, final tabulation of which extended into early Wednesday morning, showed that Richard R. Gorton took both the Republican and Democratic nomination for the post of burgess.

Gorton's majority over his Republican opponent, Raymond R. Ottinger, was a mere 17 votes, or 442 to 425, but Democratic write-ins gave him a larger majority, 62. The count was 84 to 22.

Democratic vote by wards: Gorton, 29, 29, 17 and 9, total, 84; Ottinger, 4, 5, 6 and 7, total, 22.

CALVIN M. ADAMS, present tax collector, who lost the Republican nomination for tax collector to Howard J. Barclay, received the Democratic nomination.

Barclay's Republican majority was 104 votes. By wards the count was: Barclay, First, 100; second, 74; third, 164; fourth, 149; total, 487; Adams, First, 107; second, 52; third, 105; fourth, 119, total, 383.

Frank Harple, who was listed as the Democratic candidate for tax collector, ran third, after write-in votes gave Adams 99, Barclay 37, and Harple 31.

By wards, the Democratic vote for tax collector was: Adams, First, 30; second, 23; third, 31; fourth, 15, total, 99; Barclay, first, 7; second, 6; third, 13; fourth, 11, total, 37; Harple, first, 11; second, 13; third, 3; fourth, 4; total, 31.

Joint Committee Grants Increases In Salaries

Spring-Ford Joint school committee granted salary increases to athletic personnel and to some other staff members for extra curricular activities at its monthly meeting Wednesday night in the Senior High school library.

On recommendation of Herbert Widdop, personnel committee chairman, the panel set a salary schedule boosting the majority of salaries, left a few at their present figure and added three new ones.

Total cost of increases to the athletic coaches in senior high and junior high was $2100, plus $450 increase to other staff members in the Senior High school and $250 increases to other Junior High school personnel.

The joint committee also approved the personnel committee's recommendation for equalizing head teachers salaries in the elementary schools, ranging from $100 to $450 in five elementary buildings, depending upon the number of classrooms for which they are responsible. Total cost of these increases was $200.

ON RECOMMENDATION of the property committee, Harry Leopold, chairman, the joint committee accepted the bid of Horning Chevrolet, Royersford, for a new 48-passenger bus, powered by a V8 engine at a cost of $5073.

Bids also were accepted for the purchase of various paints for Summer maintenance work at a total cost of $267. The bid of Plotts Brothers, Royersford, $1350, was accepted for plumbing work to be done in the visiting team's room in the Senior high school building.

Another bid, in the amount of $3170 from Omholt Brothers, Philadelphia, was accepted for a new gym floor to be installed in the Washington street Junior High school building.

The bid of Irvin K. Stierly, Mont Clare, for stair treads in the Washington street Junior High school, amounting to $704 also was accepted.

SALES-CREDIT TRAINEE
THE SHERWIN-WILLIAMS CO. —Leader in the paint industry, has an opening in Pottstown for an ambitious and serious-minded man to train for a position in its rapidly expanding branch organization. Successful applicant will receive training in all phases of branch operation, with emphasis on product knowledge, selling, credits, collections, etc. Salary and Bonus. For prompt interview at your convenience, write, giving age, marital status, education, experience, and availability to: Mercury Box U-25.

Salesmen Wanted
by company established over 16 years. 5 day week, year around employment, no layoffs, paid company benefits and vacation. Starting salary $85 leading to salary and commission. Earnings possible up to $7500 per year.

Employed men—how would you like to make $1000 more per year than you are now earning. If you are unemployed here is an opportunity that can bring you real security — all year around. These qualifications are necessary: honesty, integrity, and an eagerness to put in a good days work. We will teach you how to be positive, creative and successful in selling. We believe in the "Golden Rule".

If you are the right man, you will enjoy working for this company in direct to consumer sales. We appreciate good salesmen and let them know it. We need the right men for existing and expanding routes. Write Mercury Box U-27.

Cow Sets Record

The Holstein-Friesian Association of America has announced a production record by a 5 year old Holstein in this western Pennsylvania area. The Holstein, owned by McChesney Brothers, produced 18,073 pounds of milk and 750 pounds of butter fat in 324 days. It was milked twice daily.

MEN WEAR VEILS

4 CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS AT CHURCH CLASS

Ruth Ann Houck Reads Primary Scripture Lesson

SUMNEYTOWN—Phone BE 4-4302, Del. Linwood Renninger, Phone FO 7-2744.

The following of the Cradle Roll department celebrated their birthdays in the Nursery department of St. John's Lutheran church school: Karen Gehman, Debby Kay Fretz and Janice Kulp celebrated their second birthday anniversaries and Leslie Kay Sell celebrated her first birthday anniversary.

Visitors in this department were: Mrs. Richard Sell and daughter, Leslie; Mrs. Martine Gehman and daughters, Karen and Robin Lynn. Ruth Ann Houck read Scripture in the Primary department. Mark Germes will read Scripture next Sunday morning.

The class taught by Mrs. Frank Dice had perfect attendance. In the Primary department, the opening devotions included the Mother's day theme. Plants were given to each child in the Nursery, Kindergarten and Primary departments to present to their mothers.

The Youth fellowship of Frieden's United Church of Christ held a meeting in the pavilion.

THE WOMEN'S guild of Frieden's United Church of Christ is conducting a youth clothing drive.

Mr. and Mrs. John Grubb and daughter, Susan, of Barto RD, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goadby and daughter, Kelly Ann, of Pennsburg RD, were guests of Mrs. Laura Wardle and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Schaffer of Green Lane were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hertzel and son, Kenneth Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Heacock became the parents of a son in the Allentown hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Bilger of Emmaus were the weekend visitors of their daughter, Mrs. Francis B. Reed and family.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Angstadt were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey O. Moyer at Telford RD.

Car Surrenders 10 Feet From Home

PORT WASHINGTON, Wis. (AP) — The car driven by William Theis purred fine all the way to Florida and back—almost.

The auto stopped ten feet from the family garage as Theis and his wife returned from a Southern vacation. No amount of coaxing would make it go again.

My True Story of triumph over DEAFNESS

—a grateful lady writes to her Beltone Hearing Aid Consultant

"Thank you from the bottom of my heart for having made all this possible for me. Hearing again is something I prayed for, but never thought I'd have.

"I enjoy my Beltone every day. My friends and family enjoy me again, too. It's so wonderful, because I don't feel left out any more. May God bless you."
